

WALL STREET STOCKS SOLD LATE IN DAY; CLOSE MIXED

More Than Score of Issues Record New Peaks in Upward Movement in Earlier Trade.

U. S. STEEL, A. T. & T. REACH NEW HIGHS

Selling Said to Be Inspired in Part by Fear of Increase in Bank of England Rate This Week.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Heavy selling in the last half hour of trading, inspired, in part, by fears of an increase in the Bank of England discount rate tomorrow, turned the course of stock prices irregular just before the close of today's market after an earlier long burst of buying had carried more than a score of issues to new high levels. Prices of many of the leaders dropped from one to five points below their early highs, and final quotations disclosed a rather long list of net declines ranging from one to nearly seven points, as well as a long list of one to ten point gains.

The further drain on Great Britain's gold reserve was regarded in some banking quarters as making a higher Bank of England rate imperative and this, it was believed, would result in a withdrawal of foreign balances from New York, adding to the credit strain
here.

Two Favorable Developments.
Two of the most favorable developments in the day's news were the advance in the price of domestic copper to 15 1/2 cents a pound by one producer, apparently acting at rest fears of a further reduction, and the publication of a word-breaking August sales statement by Montgomery-Ward.

So great was the volume of trading that the ticker fell nearly 20 minutes behind the market at midday. Some observers saw in this increased volume an indication that a sharp downward readjustment was likely this week, and several of the large commission houses urged their customers to keep their accounts in liquid position.

Late selling was most effective in the steel, public utility and railroad shares. U. S. Steel common stock lost all but about a point of its early gain of 5 1/2 points, and Bethlehem showed a net loss of 1 1/2 on the day. Youngstown Sheet & Tube, on the other hand, closed 5 points higher.

Report of Copper Advance.
Atlas Powder broke more than 4 points and Westinghouse Electric, Radio, General Electric, American and Foreign Power, Stone & Webster, New York Central, Atchafalpa and Montgomery-Ward showed declines of about 2 to 4 1/2 points.

Coppers all closed higher on report that a producer had raised the domestic price of the red metal to 15 1/2 cents a pound. American Smelting showed a net gain of more than 4 points and Anaconda and Yamconet each closed about 1 1/2
points higher.

Oils were sluggish on selling, inspired by the gasoline prices in the metropolitan district. Standard Oil of New Jersey, Pan American and Texas Co. were among the issues in that group to lose a point or more.

One $2,600,000 Sale.
One of the most interesting trades of the day was that involving a block of 5200 shares of Commercial Solvents, a member of the New York stock exchange, which bought a cash value of approximately $2,600,000, a fact which in itself was sufficient to mark it as out of the ordinary. Commercial Solvents has experienced remarkable growth in the last few years and has become a factor to be reckoned with in the chemical field.
Commodities were mixed. Cotton advanced 70 cents to $12.50 a bushel after selling off in the early trading. Wheat closed 1/4 to 1/2 cent a bushel lower on reports of rain in the Argentine. Corn advanced 1/4 to 1 cent a bushel on favorable weather reports in the northwest.

Foreign exchanges held firm in quiet trading. Sterling cables relied slightly above last week's final quotations, or just above the generally accepted "Gold Import" points.

Closing stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on Pages 27, 28 and 29.

USE OF ICEBREAKERS AS TOURIST SHIPS IN ARCTIC PROPOSED

Project Considered by Members of Soviet Expedition to Far North.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Sept. 3.—The Russian ice breaker Sedov, exploring Franz Josef Land, far north of the Arctic Circle and the world's northernmost colony, has sent wireless to Moscow authorities that the new Soviet radio station and meteorological observatory on Franz Josef Land was auspiciously opened on Aug. 30.

The members of the expedition were enthusiastic over the successful progress of their task of exploring and taming the frozen North, lying in Russian territory.
The leaders are considering a project of using Soviet icebreakers as tourist ships for visitors who might desire a trip to Franz Josef land and the other Russian possessions in the North.

At the present, the expedition is exploring Hooker Island. One of the groups explored the spacious deep valley in the northern part of the island, called the Valley of Silence, through which flows a stormy mountain river. Another group crossed Hooker island from south to north, reaching Cape Albert Markham and the glacier Helena.

BEAR CARRIES OFF AND KILLS FARMER'S CHILD IN MANITOBA

Enters House While Girl's Mother Carries Supper to Her Husband in Field.

By the Associated Press.
WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Sept. 3.—
A report from Lowland says that a farmer's 3-year-old daughter has been carried off and killed by a bear.

Mrs. Fred Gorricleuk left her three children in her house and went to the field to take supper to her husband, when she returned she found the door battered in and the house empty.

In the clearing in the rear of the house she said she found the body of her daughter, badly torn. The other two children said a large black bear had entered the house.
The two children ran, but the third was seized by the bear.

15 DOGS IN RICHMOND HEIGHTS POISONED WITHIN ONE WEEK

Most of These Killed in Westmore; Strychnine Put in Meat Thrown Out for Animals.

The deaths of 15 dogs in Richmond Heights within the last week today was attributed to strychnine after portions of meat found on lawns had been analyzed by chemists and found to contain the poison.

Complaints about dogs had been received, Chief of Police Florence said. With a few exceptions owners were residents of Westmore, a subdivision south of Clayton road and west of Big Bend road.

Pedigreed dogs and mongrel pets alike have been victims.
SINCLAIR'S AUTO RIDES ENDED

Board of Public Welfare Discontinues One of Duties.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—The Board of Public Welfare today discontinued the duties of Harry F.
Sinclair, millionaire oil man, who is serving a term in the district jail, which permitted him to take several automobile rides weekly.

Sinclair, who is acting as an assistant to Dr. Morris Hyman, resident physician at the jail, had been permitted several times a week to accompany the doctor from the jail to a branch clinic at what several blocks away. W. L. Peak, jail superintendent, previously had denied that Sinclair was permitted to take automobile rides for pleasure.

MECHANIC LEAPS FROM DERBY SHIP, PILOT MISSING

Ward Miller, Aid of Maj.
John Wood, Found Wandering in Desert Near Needles, Cal.

EXPLOSION HURLED HIM FROM PLANE

Lost Consciousness as He Pulled Ripcord of Parachute—No Trace Yet Found of Companion.

By the Associated Press.
NEEDLES, Cal., Sept. 3.—Dazed and near collapse, Ward Miller, 25-year-old airplane mechanic, was found wandering in the desert near today with a story that hinted of tragedy for the air race Maj.
John Wood began from Los Angeles to Cleveland, O., early today.

Miller, who was accompanying Wood, told an old prospector who found him that all he was able to remember was an explosion which hurled him from the roaring airplane and then lapsing into unconsciousness just as he pulled the rip cord of the parachute straps to his back.

When he regained his senses,
Miller said, he found himself prostrate on the desert. As he wandered about, he saw bits of wing of an airplane, but he could find no trace of Wood nor other parts of the ship. Miller said he thought Wood had perished.

The finding of Miller provided the first indication of the fate of the flyers who had not been heard from for nearly 36 hours. Miller was riding in the cabin of the ship, pumping gasoline to the motor.

Parties were dispatched from here to search for the plane and Wood. Wood was 32 years old and resident of the Northern Airways Co. He was a veteran pilot and lived at Wausau, Wis.

Early Monday, he lifted his heavily loaded ship from the Metropolitan airport near Los Angeles as the last entry in the Cleveland race, a feature of the National Air Races. It was his second attempt, motor trouble having forced him down in New Mexico last Friday and he returned to starting from here.

Air Races Held Over One Day to Finish Events.
CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 3.— Officially ended yesterday with a visit of Dr. Hugo Eckener at the head of his record-breaking flight in the Graf Zeppelin, the National Air Races were held over one day beyond schedule to permit several events, crowded out during the week, to be run off.

"I prefer not to be a hero, but to demonstrate the safety of the airship," the commander of the first lighter-than-air craft to circle the globe, declared. "If one must be a hero to step aboard a dirigible, then airship transportation will never pay and I shall be a bankrupt here."

"I have shown that it is safe and no I hope for backing for transportation lines."
The assertions were received as significant in view of his departure later in the day to visit the Zeppelin works in Akron, of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., where a construction program including the two great airships for the United States Navy exceeding in size any ever taken aloft, is under organization.

The call for speed in commercial aviation was answered yesterday by a little monoplane that ran away from the fastest planes of the Army and Navy and set up what officials said was a world's record for commercial plane speed.

Douglas Davis of Atlanta, Ga., pilot of the little Tri-Motor, flew around a 10-mile course at an average speed of 194.69 miles an hour, despite the fact that he lost valuable seconds in repeating a turn on which he had fouled.

On one lap of the race Davis pushed the plane up to a speed of 208.69 miles an hour.

The power plant, a Wright whirlwind 200 horsepower engine, was from 100 to 200 horsepower less than those of some of the planes against which it competed.

Lieut. R. G. Breene, Army Air Corps flyer of Wright Field, flying a special Curtiss-Hawk pursuit plane, powered with a Wasp air-cooled engine, was second with an average speed of 186.84 for the 50-mile race. A Lockheed Vega flown by Roscoe Turner of Hollywood, Cal., was third with an av-

I. C. C. CUTS $45,000,000 DEPRECIATION FUND OUT OF TELEPHONE VALUATION

Money Collected From Subscribers Cannot Be Included in Rate Base—Ruling Saves Chicago $2,- 000,000 a Year.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Announcement was made today that the city of Chicago has won its controversy with the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. over the company's valuation.

Leonard Ettelson, Assistant Corporation Counsel, said that he had received a copy of the Interstate Commerce Commission's decision, ordering the telephone company to deduct its $45,000,000 depreciation fund, collected from telephone users, from its total valuation figure of $145,000,000. Ettelson said that the decision would save the telephone users about $2,000,000 annually.

The controversy started over two years ago when the telephone company sought a new franchise. The city contended that the $45,000,- 000 depreciation fund should not have been included in the valuation of the company for franchise purposes.

In its decision the Interstate Commerce Commission authorized the Illinois Commerce Commission to establish the year-by-year depreciation rates.

MUNICIPAL OPERA DEFICIT ABOUT $17,000

Directors Will Meet Tomorrow to Determine How to Deal With Shortage.

The Municipal Theater Association's deficit this year will be about $17,000, Director of Public Welfare Salisbury, who is chairman of the Executive Productions Committee, estimates today.

Directors of the association will hold their September meeting at Hotel Jefferson tomorrow when means of wiping out the deficit will be discussed.

In the 11 years of the association's existence there have been three deficits. The first season ran about $11,000 behind the budget, and the loss was underwritten by the guarantors, who were reimbursed from the next year's profit.

The second season resulted in a small deficit which was charged off from surplus.

At present the association has a surplus of about $40,000, a substantial part of which must be kept in hand to meet pre-season expenses of next year. The directors will decide whether to charge the deficit against surplus or assess the 400 or more guarantors who are pledged to the extent of about $75,000.

The deficit, it is understood, did not result from a falling off of attendance at the Municipal Theater but from increased patronage of the cheaper seats as against smaller attendance in the higher-priced sections. Although attendance figures exceeded the previous year, receipts for the season are said to have been about $30,000 less than in 1928.

TEN ACCEPTED AS JURORS FOR STRIKERS' MURDER TRIAL

Three More Seated When Presiding Judge Revises the Qualifications.

By the Associated Press.
CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 3.— Attorneys hoped today to select the two jurors needed so they might begin presentation of evidence in the trial of 16 men and women, charged with murder in the slaying of O. F. Aderholt, Gastonia police chief, during the recent textile strike at Gastonia.

Determined to hasten obtaining of the jury, Judge M. V. Barnhill revised the qualifications of jurors yesterday and three were accepted.
They brought the number in the box to 10. The second special venue was exhausted an hour after court convened this morning.

Those selected yesterday were G.
L. Benson of Newell, a railway clerk; Conrad G. Torrence of Davidson, a textile worker and G. L.
Shuford, Charlotte, a car repairer and member of a railway union.

TWO KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH AT KANSAS CITY

Employees of Missouri Highway Engineering Department Victims; Pilot Slightly Hurt.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 3.—
C. B. Aditt, 48 years old, and E.
Warren Gotwals, 30, both employed by the Missouri Highway Engineering Department, were killed today when an airplane crashed at Commercial Airport, near here. Willis Young, 32, who was piloting the plane in which Aditt and Gotwals were passengers, was not seriously injured.

MUSSOLINI'S FIFTH CHILD BORN

Daughter of Italian Premier to Be Named Anna Maria.

By the Associated Press.
FORLÌ, Italy, Sept. 3.—Muso-lini is a father for the fifth time.
A daughter, who will be named Anna Maria, was born to Signora
Mussolini here today.

Both mother and baby were reported to be doing well. Anna Maria is the Duce's second girl.
His eldest child is his daughter,
Edda, who is followed by Bruno, Vittorio and Romano. Romano is nearly 2 years old.

ZEPPELIN SIGHTED AT SANTANDER ON WAY HOME

Dirigible Reported 100 Miles From French Border, Flying About 65
Miles an Hour.

AT FRIEDRICHSHAFEN TOMORROW MORNING

Fails to Equal Its Own Record Time in Crossing the Atlantic on Homeward Cruise.

By the Associated Press.
SANTANDER, Spain, Sept. 3.—
The Graf Zeppelin passed over this city this evening. It was sighted at 9:15 p. m. (2:15 p. m. St. Louis time), and was flying high toward the northeast.

(The elapsed time of the one hour and a half between Gijon and Santander indicated a speed of about 65 miles an hour.)

By the Associated Press.
GIJON, Spain, Sept. 3.—The Graf Zeppelin was sighted from here at 7:42 p. m. about three kilometers from the coast, flying at about 1000 feet.

The reports of sighting the dirigible at Gijon and Santander show that the airship followed the Northern coast of Spain after passing Corunna, instead of cutting across the Bay of Biscay.

The distance from Corunna to Gijon is about 150 miles, and was covered in about two and a half hours. From Gijon to Santander is about 100 miles, and it is about the same distance from Santander to the French border.

By the Associated Press.
LE BOURGNET, France, Sept. 3.—
The wireless station here tonight received a message from Caux Flying Field radio station, near Bordeaux, giving the Graf Zepplin's position at 6 p. m. as 300 miles southwest of Bordeaux.

The Zeppelin was said to be maintaining constant communication with French wireless stations.
The latest word on its course from Capt. Lehmann was that he expected to reach the French coast near Bordeaux about 8:45 p. m.

The Graf expected to cross the French coast near Bordeaux after sundown.

The Caux Field station intercepted a message giving this information direct from the dirigible to the home works at Friedrichshafen.

Weather conditions in southwestern France were favorable for the Graf's progress home across France. Aviators here think Capt.
Lehmann would make a leisurely passage during the night and reach Friedrichshafen early tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Sept. 3.—The French Air Ministry was informed this afternoon that the Graf Zeppelin passed over Corunna, Spain, at 5:30 p. m.

The Graf's position had become something of a mystery, the last definite report of longitude and latitude locating it 315 miles west of Lisbon, Portugal.

Corunna is a seaport on the extreme northwestern tip of Spain, not far from Cape Finisterre.
It is roughly 400 miles from Bordeaux, across the Bay of Biscay on a diagonal line.

Gives Position West of Lisbon; Asks About the Weather.

By the Associated Press.
HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 3.—
The Graf Zeppelin sent a radio message to the Hamburg American Lines at 9 a. m. giving its position as 37:50 north and 15:30 west, headed for Cape Finisterre, north-westernmost point of the Spanish peninsula. The position is about 315 miles west of Lisbon.

By the Associated Press.
FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 3.—The Graf Zeppelin, homeward bound to Friedrichshafen, was between Spain and the Azores this morning, making about 75 miles an hour, headed for the Spanish coast near Cape Finis-
terre.

The Zeppelin's route is several hundred miles to the south of the one followed when it began its voyage around the world from Lakehurst, Aug. 7, and completed a 4200-mile, crossing to Friedrichshafen in 55 hours and 24 minutes.

To have equalled its own transit in an hour, headed for the Spanish coast near Cape Finis-
terre.

THEATER MAN'S WIFE ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

MRS. LOIS PANTAGES.

MRS. PANTAGES GOES TO TRIAL IN AUTO DEATH

Theater Magnate's Wife Accused of Causing Fatality While Intoxicated.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 3.—
The murder trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages, 42 years old, wife of the millionaire theatrical man, Alexander Pantages, for the death of Joe Rokumoto, Japanese, in an automobile collision, opened today in Superior Court.

Six men and six women were placed in the jury box as the first panel and the defense too kup individual questioning of jurors.

Mrs. Pantages' face was shielded by a wide-brimmed brown felt hat from the view of spectators who filled the courtroom.

Pantages, former owner of a circuit of vaudeville theaters, sat in the front row of spectators' seats.
With him were his daughter and two sons.

Pantages himself is to go to trial
Sept. 23 on two statutory charges brought by Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer.

Rokumoto died of injuries a few days after Mrs. Pantages' car crashed into his June 16. Witnesses at her preliminary hearing testified she was intoxicated at the time.

Max Steuer of New York has been called to assist the defense.
The plans disclosed by W. I. Gilbert and W. J. Ford, attorneys for the defendant, indicated an attempt would be made to prove Mrs. Pantages was suffering from a nervous disorder, and that she was not intoxicated.

TABLOID APPEARS IN CHICAGO; TWO-CENT EVENING PAPER

Publication Is Owned by Former Chief Stockholder of Journal, Merged with Daily News.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—The Daily Illustrated Times, Chicago's first tabloid newspaper, appeared today as the only two-cent evening paper in the city.

Front and back pages of the 48-page paper were devoted to pictures of various newspaper features and domestic and world news filled the inner pages.

The principal stockholder of the company sponsoring the new publication is E. E. Thomason of the Bryan-Thomason newspapers, Inc., formerly principal stockholder of the Chicago Daily Journal, now merged with the Chicago Daily News.

Associated with Thomason in the tabloid is John Stewart Bryan of Virginia, joint owner with Thomason of the Tampa, Fla., Tribune and the Greensboro, N. C., Record and publisher of the Richmond, formerly editor of the Chicago Daily Journal, is managing editor and part owner of the new paper, which will be published from the old Journal plant.

PROBING FOR BULLET, DOCTOR FINDS WRIST WATCH

Woman's Timepiece Driven Into Her Arm by Shot Husband

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Secretary of State Stimson said today a "considerable period of hard work on details" still would be required before an agreement on naval parity between the United States and Great Britain could be reached.

The Secretary's statement was made in commenting on Geneva reports of Prime Minister MacDonald's speech there. He said those

SHUTTLE PLANE FORCED DOWN AND DAMAGED IN UTAH

Clogging of Gas Line Compels Capt. Eaker to Land on Mountain Near Salt Lake City.

TWO MEN ABOARD ESCAPE UNHURT

Second Mishap Occurs on Endurance Plane's Return Flight From Pacific to New York.

By the Associated Press.
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 2.—A stoppage in the gas line forced down the Boeing endurance plane Shuttle on the side of a mountain about 10 miles east of here today, Capt. Ira C. Eaker, the pilot, and Lieut. Bernard S. Thompson, co-pilot, escaped injury but the plane was damaged.

One wheel of the Shuttle was broken and the wings were damaged in the landing. The two flyers stopped an automobile on the highway and arrived in Salt Lake City about noon. They said the plane could be repaired.

In a previous attempt the Shuttle was forced down at Cleveland, O., Aug. 29. In refueling a can of gasoline fell, breaking a spar and damaging the Shuttle's top wing slightly, forcing a descent for repairs.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—Pilot of Capt. Ira C. Eaker, the Shuttle plane completed the east-to-west crossing of the continent yesterday at 1:20 p. m. Pacific time (3:20 St. Louis time) when it arrived over Oakland airport. The Shuttle stopped a package of newspapers from New York, but did not refuel. Five minutes after its arrival it was on its way back toward the Atlantic Coast.

The Shuttle reached Elko, Nev., at 4 p. m. Advice said it had taken on 375 gallons of fuel. The pilots evidently did not deem it wise to continue toward Cheyenne, Wyo., however, and remained close to the Elko landing field.

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 2.—The log of the Boeing-Hornet Shuttle, en route from New York to San Francisco:

7 p. m. (Sunday).—Approaching Omaha. Here Capt. Street and Lieut. Woodring gave us fuel. Just as we flew over Fort Crook airport they took off. Made contact at 2000 feet and got 200 gallons in six minutes. Street put a note on the fuel hose saying he thought it unsafe to take off with more but that he would land and bring up another hundred.

7:30 p. m.—Dark now. Street is just taking off with the second load. Made contact and filled our tanks until they overflowed.

8 p. m.—Headed west for North Platte, circled airport. They displayed "Good weather" so we are going on. Greased rocker arms. Bucking strong west wind.

1:45 a. m. (Monday).—Coming into Cheyenne. The field is lighted up and there is no plane on the ground. So Slim Lewis is already in the air to give us fuel. Sighted him but he has not gotten his altitude. He is too low for contact.

Climbing Over Mountains.
2 a. m.—Made contact for 10 minutes. Lewis and his crew functioned perfectly. We got our 200 gallons, filling our tanks. We have 2000 pounds aboard now and are climbing hard to get over the mountains west of Cheyenne.

Just passed the main plane off to our left and slightly below. The weather report which Lewis gave us shows headwinds between 10,000 feet, but favorable winds at 12,000. We cannot get up there, though, and keep the lights in view because of the clouds.

Just passed Rawlins. The clouds are closing in. Cannot see the clouds. We are climbing up, though.

8:30 a. m.—Daylight is just breaking. Can now distinguish objects on the ground and that a great relief for it has been a very dark night. A thunderstorm has us blocked off from Salt Lake City so we are running around to the north. Only making 60 miles an hour now. A terrific wind is blowing, scattering rain squalls. Climbed up to 12,000 feet and can see Salt Lake City off to the left.

I have heard there is a buffalo skull in one of the hotels in Salt Lake on which is an inscription by Brigham Young: "Traveled 21 miles today. At times we have made more speed in an hour than I have heard of in any other place. I wonder what transportation be 50 years hence."

9:30 a. m.—We are draining oil and putting a fresh supply in the engine tanks. Once when we drained oil from the Quince Mark last January in Los Angeles we got a letter from an irate mother on the following day saying that we had got oil on her baby's clothing which was hanging on a line in her backyard. We are taking

BODY THOUGHT TO BE THAT OF SWISS FLYER

Youth Wearing Rubber Suit
Found on Beach and Buried Near Lisbon.

By the Associated Press.
LISBON, Portugal, Sept. 2.—It is believed here that the body of one of the two youthful Swiss flyers who disappeared Aug. 19 in an attempt to cross the Atlantic to New York was found and buried near here.

On Friday of last week the body of a light-haired youth clad in a yellow rubber suit and wearing goggles was washed up on Encosta Beach. The description fitted either of the two Swiss, Oscar Kaeser and Kurt Luescher.

The body was unidentified in the small town where it was picked up and after legal formalities it was buried in a cemetery there. It was not until after burial that news of the discovery reached Lisbon and gave rise to the conviction that the dead man was one of the young aviators. It was suggested the clothing he brought here to have an attempt made to identify it.

The flyers took off from a beach near here on Aug. 19, hoping to complete a nonstop flight to New York. They subsequently were seen 170 miles west of Lisbon by a steamship and there was a report that they had been seen over one of the islands of the Azores.

Nothing more was heard of them. In the last three years transatlantic flights from east to west have taken toll of 23 lives, inclusive of the two Swiss.

SHIP'S MAIL IN 5 HOURS EARLY Plane Catapulted From Deck of Ile de France.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—An airplane was catapulted from the deck of the incoming liner Ile de France today, reaching the French Line pier with a load of mail five hours before the ship was due there.

The plane, piloted by Lieut. Leon Domergue and a radio operator, left the ship 30 miles east and 40 miles north of Ambrose Light, at the entrance to New York Harbor. It alighted at noon at Quarantine for customs and health inspection and then continued to the Fifteenth street pier, from which the mail was rushed to the postoffice.

11:30 a. m.—Coming into Elko. Vance has already taken off to refuel us. Made contact immediately for seven minutes and got 200 gallons, but our tanks aren't quite full. The note we put on the refueling hose for Vance blew off so we are dropping the same message at Reno on the air mail field, where it will be relayed to him.

2:30 p. m.—We are climbing over bumps between Reno and Sacramento. It is the roughest air I have struck. More than once I have left the floor and gone up against the ceiling of this little cockpit.

3:30 p. m.—We are gliding down the slope now toward the coast.

BARGE LINE HURT BY LOW STAGE OF MISSISSIPPI RIVER

Acceptance of Bulk Freight in Volume, Including Grain, Is Temporarily Discontinued.

The lowest water in years on the Lower Mississippi caused the Federal Barge Line to announce today that it would temporarily discontinue the acceptance of bulk freight in volume, including grain. Most of the channel difficulties are arising in the deep lower river, where they have been rare in the past. At 7 a. m. today the St. Louis gauge stood at 3 foot, lowest since 1922, when the gauge showed 2.9 feet below zero on Dec. 22. Record low water was minus 3.1 on Dec. 30, 1917.

Zero on the gauge was determined by the lowest stage which the river had been known to reach when the gauge was set at the foot of Market street. At that reading, it was explained at the Harbor-master's office, the St. Louis harbor has a dependable 8-foot channel, although depths in some parts of the harbor are several times that. The river today is 3 1/4 feet shallower than last spring, when it rose to a stage of 3.45.

Tows Cut in Half.
A rise is due at this season. Normal merchandise traffic can be handled on schedule even while the water is low. Despite these facts, the Federal manager considered that the shippers whose patronage has made the Government experiment a success should have the safeguard of full information in advance.

Eight-hundred tows now en route are being split into two four-barge tows in order to negotiate the shallow crossings. The practical effect of low water is to constrict the channel. Hence barges can be loaded in normal draft, provided tows are kept sufficiently compact to round the narrowed bends. The curtailed tows are making normal time.

While the water is low, the regular Sunday and Tuesday tows will be reduced to two barges each in order to keep the eight-day schedule to New Orleans. The express packets, sailing every Friday from St. Louis, are making the trip to New Orleans in their scheduled six days.

"Red ball" freight and the full quota of less-than-carload merchandise will keep to a schedule comparable with railroad freight. Experience with the present four-barge tows indicates that the emergency tows can be increased to three barges each, handling 4500 tons. With the weekly packet traffic of 1500 tons the barge line, despite low water, will provide a freight service equivalent to two freight trains of 35 cars each every working day.

Bad Channel to Vicksburg.
This will enable the line to discharge all the more urgent demands on it with the exception of grain. The curtailment of working barge line space would be a serious hardship on St. Louis grain dealers in the event of any large freight movement. The movement of grain throughout the season has been uncertain.

Not since 1922 has the barge line encountered similar difficulties, and then the bad channel extended from the Gulf of Mexico to Cairo. This year it extends all the way to Vicksburg.

The Cairo-St. Louis section of the "bottle-neck" of Mississippi barge transportation, has been transformed by Government improvement under District Engineer Gotwals. Formerly difficulties there might be expected in every season of even normal low water.

J. P. Higgins, operating manager and chief engineer in charge of solicitation, said it was as good a stretch now as any above Greenville. He added that army engineers are co-operating with the barge line at every crucial point.

Low water has been in October in 1922 and continued for three months. Relief this year is in prospect with what river men call the annual "Thanksgiving rise." It may occur weeks before Thanksgiving, since it has occurred as early as August.

NEEDLE WORKERS TO STRIKE
New York Walkout Tomorrow to Be First of 13, Affecting 80,000, Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The first of a series of 13 nation-wide strikes affecting 80,000 needle workers, will start here tomorrow when 7000 embroidery workers, hemstitchers, tuckers and pleaters will walk out, it was announced today.

The strikes were authorized last month by the General Executive Board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, with which the workers who will strike tomorrow are affiliated. Three hundred shops in the metropolitan area will be affected by the walkout.

Informs States and Cities They Must Carry Out Federal Policy.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—The Ministry of the Interior of the Mexican Government made public today a circular to all governors, state legislatures and municipal authorities, instructing them hereafter they must recognize the Federal Government's policy and authority in questions pertaining to religious worship.

It states the right to allocate churches is an exclusive federal right and says the state governments may specify only the number of priests who may officiate within their jurisdiction.

The circular says ministers of religions are to be considered as persons who exercise a profession, subject to the vigilance of authorities and to Article 139 of the Constitution. The law may at any time modify the number of ministers.

SAYS LOS ANGELES POLICE EXACTED LIQUOR TRIBUTE

Bootlegger Accuses Captain, Four Lieutenants as Leaders of Ring That Collected "Protection."

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2.—Grand jury action was expected here today on two reports, one by the Federal prohibition office and another by a confessed bootlegger, naming a large number of Los Angeles policemen as members of a ring exacting tribute from the illicit liquor trade.

The Federal Prohibition Office reported 62 policemen of the metropolitan area, ranging from captains down, had been named by Federal investigators as members of the ring.

At the same time it was disclosed that Harry D. McDonald, a bootlegger, had made a statement to District Attorney Byron Fitts, implicating 25 policemen in the alleged operations.

Getting Tired of Tribute.
McDonald, who declared he was "tired of the continued tribute exacted by the police," was reported to have charged that the officers, instead of turning in the liquor they confiscated in raids, sold it to bootleggers from whom they were receiving protection money.

District Attorney Fitts indicated that he would lay the matter before the County grand jury today. Federal officers said they would take no further action in view of Fitts' inclination to investigate.

McDonald, who was arrested after he had made his statement, declined to furnish bail, saying threats had been telephoned to his wife, and that he preferred to remain in a cell rather than to be at liberty. Fitts placed a guard over his house.

Names Five High Officers.
In his statement, McDonald named one police captain and four lieutenants as members of a ring which visited him here.

Over glasses of his liquor, McDonald charged they demanded and obtained "protection money" from him. In spite of this protection money, he declared, occasionally his place would be raided, and later the liquor taken as evidence would be resold to him under pressure.

"I had to pay them regular wholesale prices for this confiscated whisky, just taken from me," McDonald said.

He named several witnesses who, he said, would corroborate his story that it was this protection money which resulted in only one arrest in five years. He was charged with conspiracy and violation of the prohibition laws.

By the Associated Press.
ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Sept. 2.—A monoplane piloted by E. L. Benway of Los Angeles, and carrying as passengers Benway's wife, Mrs. E. L. Benway, and a young son, arrived here last night after a flight from Los Angeles.

Benway said their flying time was only 17 hours, nearly two hours less than the time required by Capt. Roscoe Turner in his west-coast trip across the continent. Turner established a record for planes carrying passengers. The party, which left Los Angeles Sunday morning, came east for the polo matches.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—George Sumner of Rayville, La., now Minister to Honduras, has been transferred to Venezuela as American Minister there. This announcement was made today at the White House with the further statement that the transfer would take place almost immediately. A successor to Sumner in Honduras has yet to be selected.

BYRD'S RADIO SETS OFF AUTO HORN AT LOS ANGELES SHOW

Wireless Impulse Transmitted From Antarctic Also Unveils His Own Picture.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 2.—Commander Richard E. Byrd started a radio impulse from his Antarctic camp in Little America that blew an automobile horn and drew curtains from an enlarged picture of the explorer at the National Radio Exposition here last night. The feat was performed by pre-arrangement with Byrd.

The radio impulse from Byrd's camp was picked up by station KPH of the Radio Corporation of America in San Francisco and relayed by wireless to station KSE in Torrance, 20 miles from Los Angeles. From Torrance the impulse traveled by wire to the radio exposition. A crowd estimated at 10,000 stood in silence as the impulse threw a switch which sounded the horn and drew the curtains from the picture.

In a radiogram, addressed to G. Harold Porter, vice of president of the Radio Corporation of America, Byrd said:

"I thank you for the opportunity to send greetings and good wishes to the National Radio Exposition, which is the first of our operations would have been impossible. During the winter months it is doubtful that all the navies and all the power of the world would reach us, if we needed assistance, and yet the radio has reached us daily."

CHICAGO ENDURANCE FLYER, UP 260 HOURS, GETTING TIME
Bumpy Air Forced Them to Retire at Considerable Height, Says Plane Down.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Ramon Mossman and C. E. Steele, pilots of the refueling endurance plane, Chicago-We Will, put the 26th hour in the air at 10 a. m. today. They hope to beat the 420-hour record of the Louis Robin.

Mossman and Steele drew notes indicating that, although their craft was functioning perfectly, the long grid was becoming irksome. A telegram from Dr. Jackson and Forest O'Brien, who set the St. Louis record, was received at the Sky Harbor airport. It read: "Go to it, boys, we're right behind you."

Bumpy air late yesterday made flying difficult, and the 26th houring contact was made at an altitude of 8000 feet where the sea was calmer.

STRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 1.

Parents of Shirley Brody, 3, Want Dr. Chevalier Jackson to Perform Operation.

Shirley, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Brody, 4124A Easton avenue, in one of whose lungs a small screw is lodged, was taken to Philadelphia yesterday by her parents who decided Sunday that they desired the operation to remove the obstruction to be performed by Dr. Chevalier Jackson, who has a national reputation as a bronchoscopic expert.

A double-plate fluoroscope had been devised in the X-ray laboratories at the Jewish Hospital and surgeons were prepared to proceed with the operation today. Previous attempts to remove the screw with ordinary tools had been abandoned because of the possibility that the lung tissue might be injured.

SHELL CORPORATION BUYS
TWO DISTRIBUTING FIRMS
The Shell Petroleum Corporation, with headquarters in London, purchased the Western Oil Refining Co. of Indianapolis, Ind., and the Columbus Oil Co., Columbus, O., distributors of "Silver Flash" gasoline. It is announced today.

As a result of the purchase, the Shell Corporation assumes direct management of 185 "Silver Flash" service stations in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois established by the Western and Columbus concerns. In addition, the Shell Corporation will be enabled to market its own products through a large number of independent distributors associated with the two companies. The annual sale of "Silver Flash" gasoline approximates 45,000,000 gallons.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DENTON, Mo., Sept. 2.—Round-trip a curve at 50 miles an hour, Cotton Belt passenger train No. 5, which left St. Louis at 10:10 o'clock last night for Pine Bluff, Ark., crashed into the rear end of a freight train four miles north of here at 4 a. m. today, seriously injuring both members of the passenger train crew and bruising and shaking up 18 passengers.

The accident occurred 176 miles south of St. Louis.

James E. Cox, engineer of the passenger train, suffered a dislocated shoulder, severe scalp wounds, burns and a possible skull fracture, a fractured pelvis. They were taken to a hospital in Poplar Bluff. Both are from Jonesboro, Ark.

The passengers' cuts and bruises were treated by physicians here. The force of the collision telescoped the caboose and overturned five freight cars, one of which settled upright upon the engine of the passenger train, which with its tender and a mail car had been moving over on its side.

Rescuers had to chop their way through the cab to reach Cox. The fireman had jumped but Cox had set his brakes and remained at his post.

The freight, stopped by a block signal, had sent a flagman to the rear to warn the engineer of the oncoming passenger train but the flagman had gone only a few hundred yards when the fast train approached. It was said another freight train, entering the Cotton Belt tracks at Denton Junction, threw the block signal.

Passengers were transferred to another train which stopped Sunday and a wrecking crew set about clearing up the wreckage.

Shirley, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Brody, 41344 Eastern avenue, in one of whose rooms a small screw is lodged, was taken to Philadelphia yesterday by her parents who decided Sunday that they desired the operation to remove the obstruction to be performed by Dr. Chevalier Jackson, who has a national reputation as a bronchoscopic expert.

TWO HURT WHEN PASSENGER TRAIN RUNS INTO FREIGHT

Cotton Belt Collision Occurs Near Dexter, Mo.—Crew Injured and 18 Passengers Shaken Up.

ENGINEER CHOPPED FROM WRECKAGE

Locomotive Falls on Side of Track—Caboose Tele-scoped, Five Cars Turned Over.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DEXTER, Mo., Sept. 3.—Round- ing a curve at 50 miles an hour, Cotton Belt passenger train No. 5, which left St. Louis at 10:10 o'clock last night for Pine Bluff, Ark., crashed into the rear end of a freight train four miles north of here at 4 a. m. today, seriously injuring both members of the passenger train crew and bruising and shaking up 18 passengers.

James E. Cox, engineer of the passenger train, suffered a dislocated shoulder, severe scalp wounds, burns and a possible skull fracture, and Roy Hoffman, the fireman, a fractured pelvis. They were taken to a hospital in Poplar Bluff. Both are from Jonesboro, Ark.

The passengers' cuts and bruises were treated by physicians here. The force of the collision telescoped the caboose and overturned five freight cars, one of which settled upright upon the engine of the passenger train, which with its tender and a mail car had been run over on its side.

Rescuers had to chop their way through the cab to reach Cox. The fireman had jumped but Cox had lost his brakes and remained at the spot.

The freight, stopped by a block signal, had sent a flagman to the rear to warn the engineer of the oncoming passenger train but the flagman had gone only a few hundred yards when the fast train appeared. It was said another freight train, entering the Cotton Belt tracks at Dexter Junction, threw the block signal.

Another train was transferred to a wrecking crew set about clearing up the wreckage.

A double-plane fluoroscope had been devised in the X-ray laboratories at the Jewish Hospital and surgeons were prepared to proceed with the operation today. Previous attempts to remove the screw with ordinary equipment had been abandoned because of the possibility that the lung tissue might be injured.

TWO DISTRIBUTING FIRMS

The Shell Petroleum Corporation, with headquarters here, has purchased the Western Oil Refining Co. of Indianapolis, Ind., and the Columbus Oil Co., Columbus, O., distributors of "Silver Flash" gasoline, it is announced today.

As a result of the purchase the Shell Corporation assumes direct management of 185 "Silver Flash" service stations in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois established by the Western and Columbus concerns.

In addition, the Shell Corporation will be enabled to market its own products through a large number of independent distributors associated with the two companies. The annual sale of "Silver Flash" gasoline approximates 45,000,000 gallons.

$250,000 CATHOLIC LIBRARY FOR ST. LOUIS

$210,000 Already Endowed for Central Verein Memorial Building.

A resolution supporting the movement of the Catholic Central Verein of America to construct a $250,000 memorial library in St. Louis for the care of the organization's special libraries, was passed yesterday by the New York State branch, ratifying similar action by the national convention at Salem, Ore., July 18.

An endowment fund for construction of the library now totals more than $210,000 and the remainder must be obtained within the next year, according to Fred P. Kenkel, director of the Central Verein, which has headquarters at 3335 Westminster place. A special committee now in session in New York will submit suggestions as to methods of obtaining the fund.

Kenkel said. Two special libraries, valuable because of the thoroughness with which they cover their subjects, now are maintained at headquarters here. They have become so large that a fireproof building is necessary for their safe keeping.

One library is composed of volumes on sociology, economics, apologetics and kindred subjects, while the other is given to books, pamphlets, newspapers and documents recording the history of German-speaking Catholics in America. Scholars from other cities frequently come here so as to have access to these records, Kenkel said. They have been collected over a period of 13 years.

Plans for the building and selection of a site have not been considered. It is intended the building be finished within two years and dedicated as a memorial to founders of the Verein.

DRY ACT CONDEMNED

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Prohibition tendencies illustrating "The woeful indifference and blind following of modern demands from which religion has been excluded," in resolutions adopted by the Catholic Central Verein of America, meeting jointly with the Catholic Women's Union of America.

Resolutions by the women included: The Volstead act: "The law has no moral character and is an infringement upon personal prerogatives," said the resolution.

Short skirts: "It would be a pleasure to say that modern fashions are examples of Christian modesty, but unfortunately they are not. On the contrary no matter how daintily extreme the styles become the modern woman seemingly insists on wearing them in order to be fashionable."

No objection was made to short sleeves, but loose dresses concealing the figure were recommended. Publication of advertisements for factory girls which specify that the applicants must be blonde.

Indecent exhibitions on the stage and screen.

The men's Verein condemned: The national origins clause of the new immigration laws as "unfair to races that have contributed so largely to the development of the nation."

Compensatory marriages: "Unholy and degrading and subversive of the best interests of society, a diabolical abuse growing from a spirit of materialism and the desire to throw off all moral restraint."

TWO WOMEN BURN TO DEATH, AVIATOR INJURED IN CRASH

Both Strapped in Seats, Unable to Free Selves When Craft Bursts Into Flames at Westerly, R. I.

By the Associated Press.
WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 3.—Two women were burned to death and a pilot was severely burned in a plane crash at the flying field at Misquamicutt, a nearby shore resort, yesterday.

The women were Mrs. Marie A. Hunter, 31 years old, of Westfield, Mass., and Miss Marie Day, 26, of West Springfield, Mass. The pilot was Arthur Manning of Hartford, Conn.

Manning, a commercial pilot, had just taken off and had not got very high when his motor began to misfire. He turned and tried to land but the ship struck on its left wing. Manning, although badly hurt when thrown out, scrambled to his feet and tried to overtake the plane, which had righted itself and was skidding dangerously along the field. When he reached the plane it was in flames. He was unable to help the two women, strapped in their seats.

HOOVER'S SECRETARY LEADS FIGHT ON FOREST FIRES

FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 3.—Volunteers organized by Lawrence Richey, one of President Hoover's secretaries, continued today to fight a series of forest fires in the Catoctin Mountains, which threatened yesterday to sweep the fishing preserve which Richey bought last spring for presidential use.

Richey, who, instead of going with the President to the latter's Rapidan (Va.) lodge, came here for Labor day, was routed out of bed at 2 a. m. yesterday by County Forester Kline. All day and last night he led a corps of firefighters so strong.

Five blazes in the mountains near here were put out, but two were still burning today. On two occasions flames jumped a 20-foot cleared fire line into Richey's property, but were extinguished before they could reach the camp proper.

RETURNS TO SEA AFTER 15 YEARS TO WIN SCHOONER RACE

Capt. Manuel Dominguez Takes Prizes Cup and $2150 in Atlantic Contest.

By the Associated Press.
GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 3.—The Progress, captained by Manuel Dominguez, who retired from the sea 15 years ago and then returned to show his rivals how to sail a boat, was declared champion of the American North Atlantic fishing fleet last night as a result of its victory over three other Gloucester schooners yesterday.

The original plan made it necessary for the champion to win two races, but the first two attempts Saturday and Sunday to finish a race failed because the wind subsided. The anxiety of the contenders to return to the fishing grounds caused the four captains to agree after yesterday's race to end the series and call the Progress the victor.

By its victory the Progress won the Prentiss Cup and $1500 with $650 divided among the crew. The Arthur D. Story, capt. Ben Pline, won the second prize of $1000 with $550 for the crew. The Elsie, captained by Norman Ross won third prize, $500 with $450 for the crew, and the crew of the Thomas S. Gorton, with Capt. Wallace Parsons, won $350.

EDISON OUT OF DANGER
AFTER ATTACK OF PNEUMONIA

Inventor at 82, Is Convalescing, but Cannot Resume Work for Two or Three Weeks.

By the Associated Press.
WEST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 3.—Thomas A. Edison, famous inventor, is recovering from an attack of pneumonia.

A bulletin issued yesterday by his physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, was the first indication that the electrical wizard was suffering from anything more serious than a severe cold.

The bulletin said, because of his natural vigor and power of resistance, Edison, despite his 82 years, had been able to overcome the infection and now was out of danger and in a convalescing stage. He should not resume work for two or three weeks, the bulletin said.

Edison contracted a severe cold Aug. 11. Despite this he continued work in his laboratory for two days. Then pneumonia set in. The inventor refused to permit any announcement of his illness to be made for fear those in charge of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the invention of the incandescent lamp, to be held at Dearborn, Mich., on Oct. 21, might think he would be unable to attend.

Edward W. Foristel and John J. Brennan, St. Louis attorneys, will depart for Cuba today to press the claim of Joseph E. Barlow, former St. Louisan, to property valued at $9,000,000 in Havana, Cuba. They plan to present Barlow's case to the President of Cuba.

As has been told, Barlow has been fighting to obtain title to the property for years during which he had been incarcerated repeatedly. He charges he is being persecuted in an effort to drive him from Cuba and deprive him of his rights. After his latest arrest, he was released through intervention by the Department of State.

MAYOR MILLER BACK AFTER MONTH'S REST

Greets Officials and Friends but Declines to Comment on City Affairs.

Upon returning to his office this morning after a month's vacation, Mayor Miller was busy greeting heads of various city departments and many friends who called. The Mayor, accompanied by Mrs. Miller, returned to St. Louis yesterday afternoon after having spent the last week in New York City.

The Mayor said he had not kept in touch with developments in St. Louis and did not know what had been going on. For that reason he could not comment on the status of public affairs. The only matter of public business to receive his attention while he was away was the new experimental street car fare in response to a telegram from City Counselor Muench he wired his opposition to the first proposal of a weekly ticket of 16 rides for $1.

Asked if he had any plans for the Board of Aldermen when it meets late this month, the Mayor said he had plenty but would not discuss them until he had talked them over with members of his Cabinet. He was in jovial spirits and said he was feeling well.

After an informal reception for callers, the Mayor retired to his private office with members of the Board of Public Service and heads of city departments.

DEATHS FROM ALCOHOLISM IN ST. LOUIS INCREASING

Total 39 So Far This Year, Against 28 in Like Period in 1928.

Deaths from alcoholism in St. Louis during the first seven months of this year totaled 39, according to figures compiled by the Health Department. In the same period last year there were 28. The total last year was 62, the largest since prohibition went into effect.

Death certificates signed by physicians were used in compiling the figures. "I have no doubt there are many more deaths from alcoholism than appear on our records," Health Commissioner Starkloff said. "Doctors in some cases give the cause of death as something other than alcoholism to save families from embarrassment."

Deaths from alcoholism have mounted steadily here since prohibition. In 1919 there were nine deaths from this cause.

ESTHER GROTH.
INQUEST INTO SLAYING OF GIRL IN HOME SET FOR TOMORROW

Deputies Say They Have Important Clues in Shooting Near Joliet, Ill.

By the Associated Press.
JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 3.—Sheriff's Deputies declared today they had obtained important clues in the fatal shooting of 10-year-old Esther Groth at her parents' home near here Sunday. Coroner E. A. Kingston has called an inquest for tomorrow morning.

The only persons known to have been on the farm when the girl was shot were her 16-year-old sister, Viola, and her 15-year-old brother, Clarence. Clarence has been reported in answer to questions: "You can't hang anything on me." The victim, herself, before losing consciousness, moaned: "I don't know—oh, I don't know," when asked who shot her.

Clarence and Viola said they heard a shot and ran to the kitchen to find Esther dying, her wrist almost severed and her shoulder and chest wounded. The only weapon found was a shotgun, containing two shells, hanging above a door. Authorities said the weapon evidently had not been fired for some time.

The parents were at Manhattan, nearby rural community, when the shooting occurred.

KILLS WIFE, DAUGHTER SELF
By the Associated Press.

BOONE, Ia., Sept. 3.—Frank Pestotnik, 50 years old, shot and killed his wife and 16-year-old daughter yesterday and then himself.

In an attempt to escape from her father, who had just returned from a coal mine which he operates, Mary, the daughter, fled to the front yard but was shot twice.

After killing his daughter, Pestotnik started back to the house, where he met his wife, Belle, who had followed him from the kitchen. He shot and killed her on the front porch and then went to his bedroom, where he took his own life. He had been dependent over financial difficulties.

BAR REPORT URGES RADICAL REVISION OF U.S. RADIO LAWS

Recommends Complete Repeal of the Anti-Monopoly Provision as Constant Menace.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The standing committee on radio law of the American Bar Association today made public a report to the association recommending an almost complete revision of present radio legislation.

The report, which will be considered at a meeting of the Bar Association in Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 23, recommended the complete repeal of the provision of the radio act which divided the country into zones, and also of the Davis amendment of March 28, 1928, by which the commission was required to allocate all broadcasting facilities equally as between the zones and fairly and equitably in proportion to population in each zone.

The complete repeal of the anti-monopoly provision of the act was advocated in the report which said, "The section is a constant threat to the foreign communication system of the United States."

The report said the provision made it possible that a large proportion of the "invaluable short wave channels" which the United States has appropriated and assigned for use by American companies may "at any time be thrown back into the international grab-bag open to registration by other nations."

Proper Mergers Recommended.
Merging of radio and wire companies was advocated under proper conditions and repeal of the section of the radio law which requires a construction permit before the construction of a radio station was urged.

Termination of what was termed the existing uncertainty and division in radio administration was advocated by the committee by placing radio regulation in the hands of either the Radio Commission or the Department of Commerce.

In other recommendations the committee said that there should be a mitigation of the drastic provisions of the act with regard to the issuance of licenses having alien stockholders, particularly with respect to ships; improvement in the provisions covering procedure at hearings before the commission and immediate return to the original license period of three years for broadcasting stations and five years for other stations.

Couzens Bill Disapproved.
As to proposed legislation now pending before Congress, the committee disapproved enactment of the Couzens bill to establish a commission on communications on the grounds that radio regulations is not yet at a stage where it can be safely combined with regulations of wire communication.

The committee likewise recommended opposition to the enactment of any bill declaring broadcasting stations to be common carriers or to be subject to a common carrier obligation with respect to transmission of communication.

The report was drawn by Louis G. Caldwell, chairman, former general counsel of the Radio Commission; William J. Donovan, former Assistant Attorney-General; Fred C. Fernald, Cassius E. Gates and Edward A. Zimmerman.

KEEPING FAITH with the "promise of the show-window"

QUALITY in shoes begins with the character and conception of those who make them—but only begins. Good style, likewise, becomes a good shoe only through good shoemaking.

International quality goes far deeper than the smartness of International style. To every shoe is brought the most careful selection of materials. Each shoe is fashioned and built to deliver service as unmistakably as it reflects grace. There is no substitution for quality in any shoe, regardless of price—they must stand use as effectively as they stand display.

It is this ideal of what a good shoe should represent that has brought to the International Shoe Company the greatest patronage in the world of shoes. Fifty million pairs—one out of every seven produced by the entire industry—are bought each year by people who have found that these shoes deliver a degree of quality above that which might be expected for the price paid.

To put reality into these standards of value, each of International's 43 great shoe factories is a specialty plant, concentrating on just one type of men's, women's or children's shoes—and that alone.

The workers in each plant are themselves specialists, trained for years to better the single operation that is their contribution to final quality.

But that isn't all. Fourteen great tanneries are as highly specialized as the shoe plants, each concentrating on just one kind of leather. Special units produce its own lining fabrics, rubber heels and soles, chemicals, dyes and finishes.

Fifty-nine auxiliary plants extend this policy to the production of every necessary material—even to the boxes which hold the shoes and the cases in which they are shipped.

Through this principle of specialization, International assures the wearers of its shoes consistently better materials and workmanship.

By producing these materials within its own plants, without the added costs of open-market purchasing, it passes on to the nation a saving in its shoe bill amounting to millions of dollars a year.

And through this assurance of the quality that lies within, International Shoes keep faith with the promise made you by their outward beauty.

TO PROVIDE adequate facilities for its tremendous production, to assure uniformity in its high standards of quality, and to effect the economies that lower the price you pay, the International Shoe Company owns and operates—

43 Specialty Shoe Factories, each making just one particular type and grade of shoe, together producing 50,000,000 pairs a year.

14 Tanneries, each specializing in one particular type of leather, producing 25,000 sides and skins a day.

1 Rubber Heel and Sole Plant, producing 125,000 pairs of heels and 30,000 pairs of soles a day.

1 Cotton Mill, to produce 7,000,000 yards of lining fabric a year.

59 Auxiliary Plants, producing welting, dyes, chemicals, shoe boxes, shipping cartons, trunks, gloves, etc., to the value of more than $30,000,000 a year if purchased from outside sources.

INTERNATIONAL SHOES are marketed under the six marks of quality which are shown below. Together they comprise more than 1,000 styles of footwear for men, women, children and infants. They are sold by more than 70,000 leading merchants, distributed throughout every state in the Union. Regardless of the brand you select, the style you prefer or the price you pay, International Shoes represent the greatest shoe value you can buy.

9-HOUR FIGHT TO SAVE MAN FROM QUICKSAND

Tennessean Rescued in Cave by Several Hundred Men, Working in Relays.

By the Associated Press.

CAMDEN, Tenn., Sept. 2.—E. A. Fry, 23-year-old Camden pharmacist, is alive today as a result of the efforts of several hundred men, who worked in relays for nine hours yesterday by the light of flares and electric torches deep in a cavern in the Tennessee hills to free him from quicksand.

Fry was one of a fishing party of six which decided to explore Baugus Cave, 30 miles from here. Nearly a quarter of a mile back in the hill from the entrance to the cave Fry stepped into the quicksand. He sank immediately to his hips. His five companions strove unavailingly to extricate him while he sank deeper.

When Fry sank to his shoulders some of his companions went for help while the others stayed and strove to keep him from going further down. A crowd of 2000 gathered at the cave mouth, furnished volunteers who took the places of workers exhausted by their efforts inside the cave. Finally Fry was pulled free with the aid of ropes and boards. Physicians said he was in a serious condition from exhaustion.

Making Friends

Nine years ago on this date a message from the president of the Illinois Central System was published as an advertisement in the newspapers on the lines of this system. It was the first of a monthly series in which this statement begins the tenth year. As advertising this monthly series undoubtedly has set a record for continuity and duration.

These monthly discussions of railway subjects are part of the program of the Illinois Central System for making friends. Among the purposes of our railroad in desiring the friendship of the public are these:

To obtain recognition of the fact that good service cannot be performed by impoverished railroads;

To take the mystery out of railroading, thereby removing the inevitable results of suspicion, distrust and misunderstanding;

To give the public facts upon which to base an intelligent attitude toward matters of current interest affecting the railroads.

To work toward co-operation instead of hostility in the settlement of questions involving relations with patrons and governmental agencies;

To arouse an appreciation of the railroads and of sound economic policies that will lessen unjust demands upon them;

To create improved morale among railway employees and thus make for the increased efficiency, economy and courtesy of railway service;

To meet the competition of other railroads and of other means of transportation.

The reception which this program has had from the patrons and friends of the Illinois Central System is highly gratifying. Looking to the future, we pledge our best efforts toward meriting the good will which our railroad so happily enjoys.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

L. A. DOWNS,
President, Illinois Central System.

CHICAGO, September 2, 1929.

W. E. BROCK APPOINTED SUCCESSOR OF TYSON

Chattanooga Manufacturer to Serve as U. S. Senator
Till 1930.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 3.—William E. Brock, Chattanooga candy manufacturer, has been appointed by Gov. Horton for the unexpired term of the late Senator Lawrence D. Tyson, who died Aug. 24.

Brock, who is 58 years old, will serve until the regular election in November, 1930. The new Senator is a Democrat, as was Tyson. This will be the first time Brock has held public office.

Brock had endorsed Col. Luke Lea, Nashville publisher, who in a letter to the Governor had declined the appointment. Lea said in his letter that his interest and activity in public affairs had not been prompted by any desire for public office, and that he felt he could be of greater service to Tennessee "working in the ranks as a private citizen."

Brock announced he would leave within the next few days for Washington to be sworn in.

"I favor," he said, "the strict maintenance and enforcement of our waterpower resources under proper safeguards of the public interest; introduction of business methods in government; adherence to the fundamental principles of the Democratic party and other public policies which are well known."

"I am what might be called a Woodrow Wilson Democrat and I go to Washington with the desire to help carry on those policies which the great war President elucidated."

Brock was born in North Carolina, the son of a lieutenant in the Confederate Army.

Cordell Hall to Run for Senate Next Year.

By the Associated Press.

CARTHAGE, Tenn., Sept. 3.—Congressman Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, chairman of the Democratic National Committee from 1921 to 1924, yesterday announced his candidacy for the United States Senate for the six-year term beginning in March, 1931.

The announcement followed a few hours after the appointment by Gov. Horton of William E. Brock, to the seat left vacant by the death of Senator Lawrence D. Tyson.

In the statement announcing his candidacy Hull said his efforts would continue to be dedicated to the cause of peace, as well as to promotion of material progress in Tennessee, the South and the Nation.

"Another undertaking of no less paramount importance," the statement went on, "is to revitalize the national Democratic party and unite its ranks and file wholeheartedly behind a broad constructive program of fundamental policies calculated to deal adequately with every essential phase of our national life."

Hull has represented the fourth district of Tennessee for 10 terms, his service in Congress has been continuous with the exception of one term which he lost to a Republican in the landslide of 1920.

NEXT LIPTON YACHT TO PREPARE IN ENGLAND

1930 Challenger to Be Completed in May and Have Professional Skipper.

By Leased Wire From New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch, NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Establishing a precedent in America's cup racing, the new challenging yacht of Sir Thomas Lipton will be tried out and conditioned for racing in English waters instead of over here.

The skipper will be a British professional, yet to be selected, whereas the new American defender undoubtedly will be handled by an amateur.

These two facts about the races that will be held in Block Island Sound, off Newport, in September of next year were learned yesterday when Lipton arrived on the Levianth.

The Irish baronet's first visit here since the Royal Ulster Yacht Club of Belfast, Ireland, sent another challenge to the New York Yacht Club, is not in connection with his cup racing and is to be one of business and pleasure of two months' duration.

In fact, Lipton knows little of the plans for the international races. The design of his boat is in the hands of Charles E. Nicholson of Gosport, England, who turned out the Shamrock IV and with his first fling at the big yachting game almost captured the cup. Nicholson has a sweeping order to go ahead and build a yacht.

Dressed in his usual dark blue yachting attire, with visored cap, Lipton was all smiles over getting another race for the historic trophy in his advancing years, and he was optimistic over his chances. He felt the further getting away from racing machines, or huge skimming dishes, had enhanced his opportunity of satisfying his life's ambition of carrying back abroad the old empty mug, which he contends is of no use in a prohibition country anyway.

He was so elated over his challenge he even expressed his opinion that the course off Newport, insisted upon by the New York Yacht Club, would be more satisfactory than the waters off Sandy Hook, where all his other races were held and which he had hoped would be acceptable again.

The fifth Shamrock will be completed next May. It was thought it would be sent here in June along with the 23-meter Shamrock, and the latter used for trials as it was for Shamrock IV. Instead the new yacht will be tried out in English waters against the White Heather and other English yachts, a fleet that may include King George's Britannia, which was not put in commission this summer, but is expected to be next year.

Farmington (Mo.) Banker Ill. FARMINGTON, Mo., Sept. 3.—Luther Williams, president of the Farmers' Bank here, was removed to St. Luke's Hospital in St. Louis yesterday for an operation for appendicitis. His condition is regarded as critical, according to reports received here this morning.

THE PAIN WAS UNBEARABLE

"High heels, the X-Ray picture shows, threw my whole weight onto the frontal arch breaking it down completely. Utter agony! Then I discovered Ground Grippers."

Ground Gripper shoes bring quick and sure relief to tired and aching feet.

Only Ground Gripper shoes combine the following vital principles of the correctly built shoe:

1. The Flexible Arch, which allows the foot muscles to exercise and thus strengthen themselves with every step.

2. The Straight Inner Line, permitting the toes to function with a free, strong, gripping action.

3. The Patented Rotor Heel, which helps you toe straight ahead, the normal, natural way.

Ground Gripper shoes have helped thousands of foot sufferers and they'll help you.

KILLED BY SKIPPER HE HELPED CROSS ATLANTIC IN SLOOP

Seaman Who Sailed to Spain in 36-Foot Boat Shot During Quarrel With Owner.

By the Associated Press.

SEVILLE, Spain, Sept. 3.—Three men who sailed across the Atlantic Ocean in the 36-foot sloop, Mary, quarreled when the hazardous voyage was over and one of them was killed.

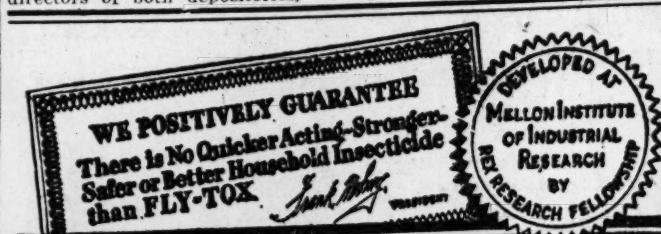

Dr. Francisco Caballero Franceschi was the skipper and Angel Carbo his entire crew when the sloop left New York July 21 for Spain. Two days out Roberto Lopez, wealthy Porto Rican resident of New York, disclosed himself as a stowaway. He had hid under the hatches until hunger and fear of suffocation drove him out.

The boat reached San Lucar de Barrameda at the mouth of the Guadalquivir River last Friday night. The next night when the skipper returned to the sloop the argument began with Carbo which ended in the doctor's shooting the man. He fell overboard and the body has not been recovered.

Yesterday the skipper and the stowaway were imprisoned to await an inquiry while the authorities dragged the river for the body of the sailor.

Dr. Franceschi declared the sailor, jealous of the attention the other two were receiving while he was treated only as a helper, attacked him with a knife. He said the man had been released from prison only 18 days before they sailed from San Juan, Porto Rico June 8, and that he had signed him only because he was unable to find anyone daring enough for the voyage.

Two Boston Banks to Merge. BOSTON, Sept. 3.—A merger of the First National Bank of Boston and the Old Colony Trust Co. has been informally agreed upon by directors of both depositories. It became known today. Old Colony will continue under its charter to conduct fiduciary and trust business while the First National will take over all commercial and foreign business.

Scientist Declares Hunger Decreases With Prolonged Total Abstinence From Food

Inhibition Gradually Sets In if Urge for Nourishment Is Not Appeased, Prof Ivan Parlov Finds.

WATSON DAVIS,
Managing Editor of Science Service

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 3.—Going deeper into the mysteries of the brain, Prof. Ivan Pavlov, Russian physiologist to whom the world owes so much of what it knows today about the involuntary and acquired reactions or reflexes, has described to the International Psychological Congress meeting here further discoveries relating to "the highest nervous activity."

In the portion of the brain lying beneath its two cerebral hemispheres is the seat of the individual's contact with the outer world, Dr. Pavlov said. Here complex urges for food, fight, and other desires reside. These reflexes, together with those of the upper brain itself, Prof. Pavlov now pronounces the supreme activity of the nerve system and deserving of a place of its own in science.

Nature has provided these important brain centers with safety appliances that prevent them from being overstrained, just as the safety valve of a steam boiler pops when the pressure becomes excessive.

How Hunger Affects Body.

If the cerebral cortex receives urgent messages of the body's need for food, hunger results. But if food is not forthcoming and food urges increase, there comes a point when inhibition sets in, hunger excitement actually decreases. Such is the way Prof. Pavlov thinks the intricate human mechanism reacts to protect itself. Hysteria is thus explained and some of the queer things people do under stress are better understood.

Powerful drugs, such as hashish, morphine, mescal and insulin aid the psychologists in studying how the mind works and how to treat those afflicted with drug addiction. Nine of his students and a fellow professor aided Prof. Erich Lindemann of the University of Iowa, to determine effects of hashish. One sensory deficiency produced corresponded to that resulting from a brain wound in a normal person. Feeling was more affected than sight. Small objects seemed large when handled.

Dr. Richard H. Paynter, reporting observations on drug addicts at Philadelphia General Hospital, explained patients deprived of drugs did not collapse from sudden abstinence, but in some cases actually did better in tests than when they are comfortable, but drugged.

Made Partly Color-Blind.

Testing a diabetic who needed insulin to keep alive, Prof. J. P. Dashiell of the University of North Carolina, found that too little, or too much insulin caused bad results, especially in distinguishing colors. Even light is considered a drug by Dr. David F. Macht of Baltimore, who found that rats thrown into convulsions by camphor, were much more violent when polarized light vibrating in one direction only was allowed to shine on them.

Apes, chimpanzees and other anthropoid close relations of man, will be bred and raised in the interests of science at a laboratory farm soon to be established by Yale University in Florida, President James R. Angell of Yale, himself a psychologist, announced to the congress. Heretofore America has had to import its apes from Africa for the important researches conducted with their aid.

Declares Movies Aid Considerably in Training of Child.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 3.—The educational value of movies was discussed at the opening session yesterday of the ninth international congress of psychology.

School children who learned part of their history by aid of special motion picture films were found to learn 19 per cent more, and to remember 12 per cent more than a group without the movies. Furthermore, the "movie" children participated in classroom discussions 19 per cent more often and voluntarily read 40 per cent more supplementary history.

These experiments were reported by Drs. Daniel C. Knowlton and J. W. Tilton of Yale University. The movies taught 393 historical facts. When a few comparatively inconsequential incidents were eliminated from this array of facts, the children's scores in rapid learning rose even higher.

Goldfish learned in less than a week to distinguish between bright, medium and dim lights in experiments conducted by doctors R. H. Wheeler and T. Perkins of the University of Kansas. Three compartments of water were illuminated to different degrees of brightness by overhead lights. Some fish were trained by finding their food only under the bright light, others under illuminations. Thereafter, when swimming in three shades of lighted water the fish chose each according to their training.

Though the brightness of the lights was changed, the fish always picked out the light at the moment brightest, or dimmest, according to their training. Before being trained the fish all chose medium light.

Dr. Wheeler said this experiment shows that even creatures of lower order do not learn mechanically, and that the goldfish make a conscious effort.

Basket ball efficiency is reduced to mathematics by Dr. Coleman R. Griffith of the University of Illinois. He finds the "average height of five jumps straight up into the air," multiplied by bodily weight, and divided by reaction time, that is, the time it takes a person to respond to a command, gives a good index of a player's skill.

Dr. Griffith also showed pictures of "fear patterns" in the muscles of circus trapeze performers. The moments of fear produced muscular rigidity.

KILLS ESTRANGED WIFE, HIS PARENTS AND HER BROTHER

Montana Miner Then Seriously Injures Himself With Shotgun.

By the Associated Press.
BILLINGS, Mont., Sept. 3.—Enraged over his recent separation from his wife, Barney Benson, 32 year old, a miner, shot and killed her, her stepfather, her mother and her brother and then shot and seriously wounded himself at Billings, town, near here.

The dead: Mrs. Beulah Benson.

27; Mar Severson, 45, her stepfather; Mrs. Mar Severson, Garry Baker, 26, brother of Mrs. Benson. Four younger brothers and sisters of Mrs. Benson were unharmed.

Benson came to the Severson home early yesterday. He called Severson out and killed him. Mrs. Severson was shot when she ran to her husband. Entering the house, Benson encountered Baker and shot him down. He entered his wife's bedroom and shot her as she jumped off the bed where she was sleeping with a younger sister, Stella. The girl escaped through a window. Benson then went into the yard where he placed the muzzle of the shotgun under his chin and pulled the trigger.

DRY FORESTS BURNING IN UPPER WISCONSIN

Wardens Call for More Help in Fighting Blazes—No Rain for Three Weeks.

By the Associated Press. RHINELANDER, Wis., Sept. 3.—Lack of men and lack of rain combined today to create a serious forest fire situation in two widely separated sections of North Wisconsin.

Woods baked by weeks of dry weather provided quick fuel for flames whipped by high winds. A number of fires swept through cutover timber land south and north of here and in the vicinity of Bayfield, on the Lake Superior shore.

Fire wardens called for more help. In the vicinity of Lakewood, where a large area is being burned over, they reported that many settlers refused to aid. They looked to rain to do the work, but weather forecasts promised only a continuation of the dry spell which has lasted for more than three weeks.

While the present fires are considered serious, they have not endangered any valuable timber and only a few farm homes. The seriousness lies in the passing of many more days without rain, creating a situation in this district worse than any time in the last 50 years, fire wardens agreed.

Out of the Lakewood fire came the story of a farmer's escape when flames surrounded his home. He bundled his children into an automobile, drove it through the flames until it caught fire, and then crawled with them to safety on the main road.

The Bayfield fire, chiefly in the Moquah National Forest area, was reported to be the "worst in the history" of that section. Rangers gained consolation from the fact that the land is sweeping is mostly "scrub" timber and second growth which the Government planned to reforest next year.

Forest Fires in Northwest Considered Worst Since 1910.

By the Associated Press. SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 3.—Forest Service officials today characterized the fire situation in the Northwest as the worst since 1910, when every national forest held one or more serious fires and many thousands of acres of private timberland were devastated.

An electrical storm which took in the entire area during the weekend started new blazes with lightning, bringing the situation in Montana, Central Idaho and Eastern Washington to the most critical point this season. Major fires were sweeping through merchantable timber in the Selway, Pond D'Oreille, Nez Perce, Clearwater and Kootenai in Idaho, the Blackfoot, Missoula and Butte forests in Montana and the Colville region and Kanikau forest of Washington. Official estimates on the amount of timber destroyed were lacking, but reports from the various fronts indicated that several hundred thousand acres had been burned.

In the Central Idaho region, where the Bald Mountain and Old Man Creek fires have swept nearly 50,000 acres, fighters are carrying their rations on their backs. The isolation of the region, precluding the travel of supply trains, coupled with the necessary mobility of the fighters, made mess kitchens rare.

Thousands of game animals, including bear, moose, deer, elk and mountain goats, which make their homes in the timber, are fleeing before the flames. Hundreds of them have burned to death and their charred carcasses are scattered among charred trunks that were once evergreen trees. Reports from the Panhandle district of Idaho carried news of the death Sunday of Joe Eakins, 24 years old, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and of the injury of Kenneth Kuris of Bonner's Ferry, O., who were struck by a large snag which fell from a tree.

YOUTH'S MODEL PLANE FLIES FOR NEARLY FIVE MINUTES More than 450 Miniature Machines Entered in Contest at Forest Park.

More than 450 model airplanes were entered by 100 youthful manufacturers in a contest for prizes at the Forest Park landing field yesterday afternoon.

That the models can fly was demonstrated in a number of instances. A double pusher model made by Joseph Ehrhardt, 16 years old, of 7020 Wise avenue, a frequent winner in model contests, flew from the park to Pershing avenue, being credited with 4 minutes, 55 seconds in the air. The pusher disappeared from the view of official timers at the expiration of that period, but was in the air several minutes longer, according to Ehrhardt, who chased his plane.

What is thought to be a new world's record for scale model planes was set by a model Fairchild made by Elmer Lueckert, 16, 136 North Clay avenue, Ferguson. The plane flew for 47 1/2 seconds. This is believed to be 1 1/2 seconds better than the former mark and confirmation of the record will be sought.

The model air meet is an annual affair sponsored by the B. Nugent & Bro. Dry Goods Co.

SIX COMMUNIST EDITORS FIRED PARIS, Sept. 3.—The political bureau of the Communist party in France today announced dismissal of the six principal editors of the party newspaper L'Humanite and a thorough revision of its policies.

The declaration, published in L'Humanite itself, said the political policy of the newspaper had been very insufficient, and even "erroneous and unsupportable" for some closer control of the newspaper time. The parliamentary bloc of the Communist party will assume was said.

ATHLETIC Homans,

Gale From Pa Sweeps Over Mackenzie

By Alan J. G.

Associated Press Sp.

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 3.—Gale From Pennsylvania swept over the field in the national amateur golf championship.

Before the wind reached its height, Gene Homans of Englewood, N. J., breezed around in 73, one over par, for a 36-hole aggregate of 145.

This gave the Princeton star a three-stroke lead over John Lehman of Gary, Ind., and Roland Mackenzie of Washington, D. C., two former college players, each of whom had 148.

Homans went out in 24, two under par, but took 29 for the second nine.

His card: Homans Out—424 335 345—34 Homans in—444 454 455—39—73—145 Chester O'Brien of St. Louis had a which with his 80 of yesterday gave him a total of 165, too high to qualify.

Purdue Star Totals 148.

John Lehman of Gary, Ind., former Purdue star, added 75 to his 73 of the previous day and moved temporarily into second place with 148, three strokes behind Homans.

His card: Lehman—445 435 344—36 543 444 546—35—75—148

A high wind added to the difficulty of Pebble Beach as the main portion of the field got under way and the scores began to soar with it.

Crowd Follows Champion. No matter what else may happen to him, over a course that has no favorites, if ocean or air and tous of sand have anything to say about it, the hero of a first skirmish of Pebble Beach is Gibson Dunlap.

The cheering 10,000 followed Dunlap from start to finish, noting an effort of the master not-maker's golf at its best, but they remained massed around the hole to roar an ovation to the California boy who knew what he had to do to beat the champion and did it. He said himself he got his biggest "kick" out of the fine spoon shot he smashed into the home green from a difficult lie but the crowd's outburst showed the sinking of an 18-foot putt for the birdie four that landed his 69. Jones had to hole an 18-footer for his own "birdie" in the eighteenth but Dunlap put an even more spectacular finish.

Throughout his round, the big Los Angeles star putted with accuracy, sinking a 40-foot putt on the second hole for an even three as a forerunner or at least he had in stock. For the day he was more effective than Bob's "Calamity Jane."

Dunlap a junior at the University of California at Los Angeles, had most of his early golfing done in the Chicago district before moving to the Pacific Coast. He has figured in a number of big tournaments in Illinois, as well as here, winning the southern intercollegiate championship last year. He has a half-swing with his shots that produces consistent accuracy.

Trio of Stars Falter. With the prospect that it would be at the most 156 to qualify, a majority of stars occupied amazingly safe positions going into the second round, with three notable exceptions. These were George St. John of New York, the 1928 medalist who needed 86 yesterday; Frank Evans of Chicago, former champion, with 111; and Phil Witte, long hitting California center and a pre-tournament favorite, who started badly with an 87.

All needed to get on "better" making terms with old man par would elimination. Clarence Wolff topped the St. Louis delegation with 79, followed by Chester O'Brien 80 and Elliott Woodard 84.

The cheering 10,000 followed Bobby Jones from start to finish, getting an eyeful of the master stroke-maker's golf at its best, but they remained massed around the home hole to roar an ovation to the California boy who knew what he had to do to beat the champion and did it. He said himself he got his biggest "kick" out of the home hole, but the crowd's outburst followed the sinking of an 18-foot putt for the birdie four that ended his 68. Jones had to hole his 18-foot putt for his own "birdie" on the eighteenth but Dunlap put an even more spectacular finish.

Throughout his round, the Los Angeles star putted with accuracy, sinking a 40-foot putt on the second hole for an even three as a forerunner or what he had in stock. For the day he had his notched Ben Sayers' hole was more effective than Bobby's "Clammy Jane".

Dunlap, a junior at the University of California at Los Angeles, was most of his early golfing years in the Chicago district before he moved to the Pacific Coast. He has figured in a number of his tournaments in Illinois, as well as here, winning the southern invitational championship last year. He has a half-swing with his left arm that produces consistent results.

Triumph of Stars Falter. With the prospect that it would be the most 155 to qualify, the majority of stars occupied the majority of safe positions going into the second round, with three notable exceptions. These were George Sargent of New York, the 1928 medalist, who needed 89 yesterday; Jack Evans of Chicago, former champion, with 81 and Phillips Bradley, who hit California coming here, and a pre-tournament favorite, who started badly with an 81. All needed to get on better than the terms with old man par to make elimination.

Worrell topped the St. Louis delegation with 79, followed by Chester O'Brien 80 and Elliott Maynard 84.

HAWAII TO HOLD $6000 GOLF MEET

HONOLULU, Sept. 3.—Flushed with the success of its first open golf tournament last year, Hawaii is preparing to welcome leading American professionals Nov. 15-17. A purse of $6000 has been offered to attract golf nomads who tour the West in winter competition.

William "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn of New York won the first open and will be on hand to defend his title.

All seven home games of the Clifton, Ind., High School team will be played at night this year. The night sport proved out in 1928.

Boston Financier To Win $36,000 if Jones Is Medalist

By the Associated Press. PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 3.

The biggest pool ever organized in connection with an amateur golf championship, $125,000 gross, will be decided today by the result of the two-day qualifying competition. If Bobby Jones captures the medal, it is understood that Henry Lapham, Boston financier, the heaviest purchaser of tickets, stands to win $36,000. Lapham also was said to hold the ticket for one of the "fields" which include the surprise leader, Gibson Dunlap of Los Angeles.

Originally 162 tickets, representing the number of entries, were sold at $100 each, then auctioned off for varying sums. The Jones ticket brought $25,000, with Lapham topping all bidders, and that of Francis Ouimet, former champion, went for $8000. After deduction of expenses, and the "house's" 10 per cent, a net sum of approximately $90,000 will be divided eight ways, with 40 per cent to the winning ticket.

FLYING HEELS WINS HANDICAP AT BELMONT IN STRETCH DRIVE

By the Associated Press. BELMONT RACE TRACK, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Gifford A. Cochran's Flying Heels, favorite in the betting at 11 to 5, scored in a drive in the Nursery Handicap, at six furlongs, over the Widener Course, here this afternoon. It was a brilliant race the son of Flying Ebony ran to land the $6,200 which went to the winner.

G. D. Widener's Hi-Jack was second and W. Ziegler's Gone Away was third.

The start was good and when the field came into full view it appeared as if three horses had alternated in the lead. When the field was abreast of the grandstand, Jack Campbell was in front, but Flying Heels was closing gamely. The latter drew out in the last sixteenth to win by half a length. Hi-Jack took the place by a head over Gone Away.

SACKBAUER TIED WITH WESTBURY FOR OSAGE BOGEY GOLF TITLE

L. A. Sackbauer and James A. Westbury were tied for low, with net scores of 76, for the blind bogey golf tournament held this morning at Osage Hills Country Club. Mrs. G. K. Loudon won the masher contest, shooting at a target, for women.

W. J. Cowers proved the most accurate in the nubbick shots for men, while Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Cox were the best pair of putters, with 41 for the 15-hole putting course.

Last Sunday the club held a caddy tournament, which was won by Ray Green, with a score of 45 for the nine holes. The feature of the meet was the fact that the members caddied for the boys.

Jim Fogarty, club professional, plans to hold a "Buddy" tournament for the women tomorrow.

MARINE MAKES PERFECT SCORE TO WIN SHOOT

By the Associated Press. CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 3.—Sergeant Carl J. Cagle, United States Marine Corps, won the Leech cup match in the National Rifle matches here yesterday with a perfect score of 105. Cagle barely defeated Sergeant Jens R. Jensen, United States Cavalry, and Capt. Walter A. Wood Jr., United States Engineers, both of whom had targets of 105. The winner was decided by the number of shots closest to dead center of the bullseye.

On this basis Jensen was second and Wood third. The match was fired over stages of 800, 900 and 1000 yards.

Sergeant Fred L. Manion, Delaware National Guard, and Corporal Maurice L. Moore, tied for first place in the rapid fire championships with scores of 99. Ties will be decided later.

Sharkey Older Than Loughran. Jack Sharkey and Tommy Loughran are almost the same age. Jack was born 27 years ago this coming Oct. 6, and Tommy's twenty-seventh birthday will fall on Nov. 29.

Win Tennis Tourney

By the Associated Press. NORTH ANDOVER, Mass., Sept. 3.—H. C. Towns and M. D. Coggin of Phoenix, Ariz., champions of the Southwest, won the tennis doubles championship of Essex County here yesterday, defeating George E. Abbott of Newton and Walter W. Weld of Boston, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

LEGION JUNIOR WORLD SERIES TO OPEN TOMORROW

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 3.—They call it "the great American game," but when the Buffalo team, winner of the Eastern American Legion Tournament, steps out on Parkway Field tomorrow afternoon to meet New Orleans, Western champion, in the first game of the Junior World Series, eight nationalities will be represented.

"Through a peculiar circumstance, 24 Far-Western states will be represented by a group of players hailing from a section usually considered Southeast. The Eastern team, however, are true Easterners and will come from a seacoast state.

In the line-up of the Buffalo nine are 10 Irishmen and two Polish boys. On the New Orleans team are Spanish, French, German, English, Irish and Italian youths, so far as parentage is concerned.

The Western roster includes such names as Savvi Carboni, Rene Passarieu, Jerry Vlasquez, Frederick Shorwood, Mangianpane and Leon Antone. From Buffalo will come Conny Wojtkowiak, Don Jacob, Ray Scharnack and Joe Krosinski, among others.

The three days of the series have been proclaimed "Days of Celebration" by Frank E. Johnson, Mayor pro tem, who urged in his proclamation that all Louisville baseball fandom turn out to show the visiting boys that Louisville recognizes their achievements, and is willing to do them homage.

Dan Sowers, national director of the junior baseball program awarded the Junior World Series to Louisville because the city seemed so enthusiastic over games in the local Legion tournament.

Louisville stands an excellent chance of obtaining the series as an annual affair if the games this year are supported.

Fifteen or 20 boxes already have been reserved, and more reservations are pouring in hourly, according to Tom Hayden, State Adjutant of the Legion. Tom expects a monster crowd if the day is fair.

LOUGHRAN GIVES UP CROWN, ASKS FOR HEAVY TITLE

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Tommy Loughran, through his manager, Joe Smith, notified the New York State Athletic Commission today that he is surrendering, without reservations or conditions, his title as light-heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

The Philadelphia boxer's manager then requested that the commission recognize the winner of the Loughran-Jack Sharkey fight as world's heavyweight champion.

This was turned down, whereupon Smith asked that the bout be designated as for the American championship. He was again refused.

CALIFORNIA GIRLS IN QUARTERFINALS OF JUNIOR TENNIS MEET

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Two Californians, Evelyn Parsons of Palo Alto, and Helen Mariow of Hollywood, were the first to enter the quarter finals of the girls' junior national lawn tennis championship.

Miss Parsons, third seeded player and semifinalist last year, today defeated Katherine Winthrop, Boston, 6-4, 6-1, and Miss Mariow, holder of the Pacific Coast junior crown, disposed of Aubrey Ayres, Long Island, 6-1, 6-1, in the third round.

Lindsey, Houston Pitcher, Is Sold To the Cardinals

Jim Lindsey, big righthand pitcher for the Houston Buffs, has been sold to the Cardinals, according to an announcement made by President Sam Brandon, today.

Houston, Texas, papers of Sunday carried the story of the sale, President Fred Ankenman of Houston being authority for the announcement. President Brandon confirmed the purchase today, saying that the announcement in Houston had been premature.

As Houston is still in the thick of a pennant fight, Lindsey will not report to the St. Louis club now. He is expected to be a strong asset to the team next season. President Ankenman of the Buffs said he felt sure that Lindsey would become a regular for the Cardinals next year.

Thus far Lindsey has won 20 games for the Buffs and last year he won 25 for the club. First them, formerly regular with the Cardinals but sent first to Minneapolis and then to Houston, has been going splendidly for the Buffs and is likely to turn up in St. Louis next year, although an announcement to that effect has been made.

CARDINALS WON EIGHT AND LOST 13 ON DISASTROUS ROAD CAMPAIGN

M'KECHNIE DENIES RUMORS THAT STAR PLAYERS WILL BE TRADED

By J. Roy Stockton

Bill McKechnie and his much-traveled and much-beaten Cardinals had a day of rest today, and they certainly need it after their vexing road campaign, which ended yesterday with a double defeat at the hands of the ferocious Cubs of Joe McCarthy, prospective champions of the National League.

It was a disastrous road campaign and a long one. The Red Birds lost two to the Pirates and moved to Philadelphia, where after winning two out of three they jumped to New York to win one of three from the Giants and one of four from the Dodgers. Then they won three out of four at Boston—the one bright spot of the journey—and then started a series of one-day stands. At Philadelphia the single game was lost. Then after playing four exhibitions, the Cardinals stopped over in Cincinnati for one game, which was won and then on to Chicago and the worst.

Starting at Boston the Cardinals were in eight different cities and towns on eight consecutive days and were on trains each night. Therefore the much-traveled description and as for the much-beaten, the records show that of the 21 games played since the team left St. Louis Aug. 7, 13 were lost and only eight won.

As a result of the three straight defeats in Chicago the Red Birds are two games below the .500 mark with 61 victories and 63 defeats and the morale of the club is unfortunately low.

Players to Be Traded? Perhaps because of the persistent rumors being circulated and because it is natural to assume that where there is so much smoke there must be some fire, the Cardinals except the winter to bring a series of trades that will break up the machine which won a pennant last year, the second anniversary of the Cardinals in three seasons.

One particularly persistent report is to the effect that Jim Bottomley will not be with the Cardinals next year and another, which was heard in almost every city visited by the team, was to the effect that Frankie Frisch would be traded, certain and sure. Haines also has been put on the block by the rumor mongers and as Taylor Douthett and Chick Harley.

When carefully analyzed these rumors appear to be ridiculous. For instance if Sam Brandon wanted to trade Jim Bottomley, where could he get a first baseman to take his place in the field and furnish the punch that Jim usually furnishes? And where is there a second baseman to perform as well as Frisch?

Bill McKechnie was asked last night if he thought there was any reason for believing that such wholesale trading would be done.

"Will be a lot of changes," "Of course there will be a lot of changes in the team next year," Bill replied. "But I can't see any trades for Bottomley or Frisch or any other bulkheads of the Cardinals. We need more strength. That's what we must do—find the strength to try to strengthen the Cardinals by tearing them down and discarding the best parts? How could you replace Bottomley and Frisch?"

I don't know anybody I'd want in their places. They are stars. There's nothing radically wrong with our team. We need an outfielder and a couple of good utility infielders. That's what we must do—find the strength we need, instead of breaking up the sound parts of our team. No, I don't believe there's any excuse or basis for the silly rumors about the Cardinals going to be torn down and the stars scattered around the league to help some other teams win."

Some of the players don't expect to be with the Cardinals next year, but we can't use any names. But several expect that because of individual poor showings or because of the general let-down of the team, they will be placed on the market.

MEDALIST DEFEATED IN CREVE COEUR TOURNEY
P. Whalen, the medalist, was defeated by C. O'Hare in the quarter-finals of the annual golf tournament at Creve Coeur Club by a score of one up.

Semifinals in both the championship and class A division will be 36-hole matches.

Eldorado Dies Series
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 2.—Jackson and Eldorado are tied, with three games each, in the play-off for the Cotton League championship. Eldorado defeated Jackson yesterday, 1 to 0. The deciding game will be played at Jackson today.

HAMILTONS WIN SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE TITLE

The Hamilton Avenue Christian Church baseball team is champion of the Sunday School League after the final game of yesterday afternoon, in which the Hamiltons defeated the Union M. E. nine, 6 to 1, on the Cleveland High School diamond.

"Buns" Harrison was the outstanding figure of the final game. Pitching for the Hamiltons, he allowed the Union only six hits and struck out 11. He held the Union scoreless until the sixth, when they grouped three hits to score their only run of the game.

The Hamiltons will meet the Sunday School baseball champions of Memphis, Tenn., on the same field, Saturday.

In a preliminary to the title game, the Sentinels, DeMotte League champions, defeated an all-star team of the Sunday School League, 5 to 2.

$500,000 Sugar Plantation Fire.
 By the Associated Press.
 HAVANA, Sept. 2.—Fire caused property damage of more than $500,000 at the American-operated sugar plantation of San German, Oriente Province, yesterday. Several laborers were severely injured. Authorities are investigating as to whether the fire was of incendiary origin. The plantation is operated by the Fidelity Sugar Co., with offices in New York.

MURDERER PREFERS
DEATH TO PRISON

Cuban Likely to Be Executed by Accomplice, Who Confessed and Is Serving Life Term.

By the Associated Press.
 HAVANA, Sept. 2.—Zolito Rodriguez, Cuban boulevardier, recently convicted of the murder four years ago of Mrs. Emilia Muniz and sentenced to die by the garrote, has directed his attorneys not to appeal, saying he prefers death to life servitude.
 "Better to die than to accept a living death behind the bars. In death I prove myself to be an innocent man," Rodriguez told reporters.
 Rodriguez bound and gagged his 44-year-old victim in a lonely farmhouse. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death due to strangulation caused by a set of false teeth slipping into the woman's throat when the gag was inserted in her mouth. Francisco de Pineda confessed the murder and implicated Rodriguez. Pineda is now serving a life sentence and acts as official executioner. In that capacity he may put Rodriguez to death.

TEXAS RANGER FOR 34 YEARS HAS HAD 22 SLUGS IN BODY

"Little Fox," Now 69, Who Entered Service at 15, Is Having Record Certified.

By the Associated Press.
 AUSTIN, Tex., Sept. 2.—Deputy Joseph Bell of Bexar County, known as the "Little Fox," is having his service record of 34 years with the Texas rangers certified. Bell is reputed to have more bullets in his body than any other living Texan. Although he is 69 years old he carries his age and 22 lead slugs well. His original ranger service record was destroyed years ago when the old Capitol here burned.

"Little Fox" was brought to the United States from Germany when a child. At 15 he joined the Rangers. Twice captured by the Apache Indians, three times by the Comanches, he escaped each time. The Apaches once tied him to a cot, stripped off his clothing, placed him between two poisoned spears that would have pierced his cheeks had he moved and then stirred up a nest of red ants underneath him.

SENATOR HEFLIN'S SON
ACCUSED OF DRUNKENNESS

Alabama Police Find Homebrew in Auto; Companion Arrested

By the Associated Press.
 PHENIX CITY, Ala., Sept. 2.—J. Thomas Heflin Jr., son of the senior United States Senator from Alabama, was arrested last night on charges of drunkenness and violating the State prohibition law. B. M. Haines of Standing Rock, Ala., his companion, also was arrested charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated.

The young men were arrested in Heflin's automobile with Haines at the wheel about midnight. The charge of violating the prohibition law was docketed, police said, when they found three bottles of homebrew in the car.

Heflin was released on bond of $115 today. His hearing in the court was continued until Friday.

Haines also was said to have arranged bond.

 JERUSALEM, Sept. 2.—A band of armed Moslems attacked Christian Arabs at Beisan today. The exact number of casualties is not known.
 Troops have been ordered to Beersheba owing to disquieting reports from there. It is said disturbances already have occurred.

By the Associated Press.
 JERUSALEM, Sept. 2.—British repressive efforts have so broken up the invasion of Bedouins from Syria into Palestine that only small scattered forces were said to be making their way today across the border for participation in Arab-Jewish hostilities.
 Information here was that the British military, co-operating closely with the French Government of mandated Syria, had the situation well in hand. The French closed the entire Syrian frontier and exerted every effort to maintain law and order. The British Trans-Jordanian frontier has been closed since the beginning of the trouble.

British military aircraft continued their demonstrations over the invaders, trying to make the restless nomadic bands of Arabs realize that the British Government is prepared to strike hard in case further breaches of the peace occur.

Outbreak Feared in North.
 Principal danger of recurring clashes seemed to exist in the north, with the vicinity of Safed somewhat restless. One company of the South Strathfordshire Regiment moved northward today to aid in keeping the peace there.

The correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency reported the general situation was comparatively quiet and signs were accumulating that it was improved. Searches were undertaken by the British authorities, he said, in the Arab villages in the vicinity of Jerusalem, and 160 Arabs of Likka, near Motza, were arrested.

Thirty-five Jews were arrested in Haifa and 17 in Tel Aviv, on charges of possessing firearms for defense. The High Commissioner, Sir John Chancellor, was said to have refused numerous requests that scores of Jews imprisoned on charges of possession of arms be released or to permit distribution of arms among settlers in colonies in the north.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency also reported that the Greek Orthodox church in the Christian community in Beisan was attacked by Arab Moslems with resultant casualties the exact number of which was not known. It was said also that a conference of Jewish and Moslem leaders obtained an agreement which prevented an Arab attack on Tiberias, in Galilee.

Two Arab Attacks Repulsed.
 Arabs attacked two Jewish colonies in the Tiberias district, but both were repulsed. One attack was on Hipplin, colony of Orthodox Jews, and the other was directed against Mizpah, where the farm of Lord Melchett, British Zionist leader, is situated.

Mitcheal El Fala, First Sheikh of the Beni Sakhi tribe in Trans-Jordan, who was arrested last week after reaching Jerusalem by a ruse, has been released on parole. He gave his personal assurance not to take up arms against Great Britain.

A Colonial Office official communique gave the following as total casualties to Saturday: Killed or died from wounds, Moslems 53, Christians 4, Jews 109; wounded now in hospitals, Moslems 127, Christians 10, Jews 132.

Two Sentenced to Death at Moscow.
 For Attacking Jewish Colony.
 MOSCOW, Sept. 2. (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Yefim Dergal and Ivan Tsherban, convicted of attacking Jewish colony No. 4, were sentenced to death yesterday after a seven-hour deliberation of the court. Ivan Dergal, a member of the band, was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment and Yefim Dergal to five years' imprisonment to be followed by deportation.
 Chief of Police Chaplin and his assistant, Briskin, received sentences of 18 months in jail, the chairman of the regional Soviet, Nikolai Poltavsky, was sentenced to one year. The sentences were pronounced in the presence of 300 peasants crowding the courtroom at the end of a three-day trial. The court established that the ac-

Snowden's Own Story
Of Victory at The Hague
Reparations Conference

When Belgian Told Him, "Our Pockets Are Empty" He Answered, "Look Through Them Again."

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON,
London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
(Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Publishing Co., The New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—"The Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden calling the British Empire."

Thus introduced last night to a radio audience that included inhabitants of the capitals of Europe as well as those of the empire, the Chancellor of the Exchequer described for 40 minutes his victory at The Hague conference.

He began with a disregard of official etiquette by reiterating his belief that payment of the war debts and reparations is "financially and economically impossible without inflicting injuries upon debtors and creditors alike." However, he said, "so long as there are payments we mean to get our share."

Snowden then described his "bombshell." He said: "We had to adjourn for two days to enable the other delegates to recover from the shock."

The weary days that followed with their "totally inadequate offers" were described and Snowden told how the "quiet, plaintive Adachi," chief Japanese delegate, came to him privately and disassociated Japan from the attitude of the other creditor Powers saying he was only sitting in with France and Italy "as an observer."

Break Seemed Near.

Then came Snowden's story of the final night.

"It looked as though the breakthrough was at hand," he said. "The French had ordered a special train to take them back to Paris. Briand made an impassioned plea to me to put the interests of Europe before any party financial consideration. I agreed. 'We are now asked,' I said, 'to accept half our just claim.' The conference seemed at an end."

"But it proved to be the darkest hour before the dawn. The room was insufferably hot. It all seemed over. Somebody moved for adjournment for 10 minutes to give us a chance to get a breath of air. We broke up into little groups. The British remained in the conference rooms. The others went outside. Then the bargaining began.

"Jasper of Belgium was the intermediary. He came to me in five minutes with an advance that met only 60 per cent of our claims. I wrote our refusal and the heads of what we must have on a half sheet of note paper. We waited half an hour. Later he returned. He had previously advanced the offer 100,000 pounds ($24,800). Now he came with 50,000 more. He said that it was all he could do.

"He Not Weary."

"I said, 'He not weary of well doing.' He was in despair. 'We have all emptied our pockets,' he fretted. I replied 'Look through them again; they tell me you have a kind heart.'

"They told me you had a kind heart," said poor Jasper. 'I've never met a man like you. You are hard. You are a type, as the French say.'

"Then someone had a brain wave. The rest of the money was found. The conference was saved."

Snowden referred to attacks upon him in the French press which compared him to "Englishmen who burned Joan of Arc, executed Mary, Queen of Scots, and banished Napoleon." These attacks, Snowden said, were more amusing than irritating.

The Chancellor closed, after a tribute to Premier Briand's "wise statesmanship, and conciliatory spirit," and to Stresemann, with a note of challenge to the continent and to his Tory opponents at home. He said:

"This stand proved that we had reached the end of our 'Quixotic generosity.' We would not allow Great Britain to be the bulwark of Europe. Our stand has made a profound impression upon other nations. Our rights have been asserted. There will be no reversion to the spineless policy of recent years. We have won the respect of the nations with whom we have been in acute but friendly controversy."

RUSSO-CHINESE PEACE
MEETING DEADLOCKED

Soviet Demands Affecting Chinese Eastern Railway Stumbling Block.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 3.—Taching, semi-official news agency telegraphing from Peking, says Berlin dispatches indicate a deadlock has arisen between the Chinese plenipotentiary, Chang Tso-pin, and the Soviet Ambassador at Berlin who have been negotiating for settlement of questions arising out of the seizure of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Taching reports from Nanking said that Foreign Minister C. T. Wang had declared the negotiations between Russia and China over the Manchurian problem "had not yet reached a stage where it was possible for the Nationalist Government to accept Moscow's proposal to issue a joint declaration."

Wang declared that Moscow's desire for appointment of a new manager of the Chinese Eastern Railway "prior to opening formal negotiations cannot in any case be recognized by the Nationalist Government."

Meanwhile Taching dispatches from Harbin declared that martial law had been declared yesterday in the Manchouli and Hailar regions of North-western Manchuria in consequence of "renewed Russian raids." Officers in Shanghai received this report with great reserve. Chinese military authorities in Manchouli reported strengthening of Russian cavalry across the frontier.

PARTY SUGGESTS THREE FORMS OF PORTO RICAN GOVERNMENT

ALLIANCE WILLING TO ACCEPT SOVEREIGNTY, AUTONOMY OR TERRITORY COMPLETE FREEDOM.

By the Associated Press.
MAXAQUEZ, Porto Rico, Sept. 3.—A convention of the Alliance, the dominant Porto Rican political party, today expressed its willingness to accept one of three solutions for the relationship of Porto Rico to the United States: Statehood, autonomy as a territory, or complete independence.

A referendum with the sanction of Congress is proposed. The convention expressed its thanks to President Hoover for consulting the Alliance regarding the selection of Col. Theodore Roosevelt as the new Governor of the island. Rafael Cuevas Liguera, a lawyer, was elected president of the Alliance party.

MOVE TO INCLUDE
KELLOGG PACT IN LEAGUE COVENANT

Delegates Hope to Use It to Stop 'War Gap' Remaining in Original Geneva Agreement.

COUNT ON BACKING OF UNITED STATES

Expect America Though a Non-Member Would Accept Council's Decision as to Aggressor.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Sept. 3.—The statesmen of the League of Nations, here for the tenth assembly session, are considering a move to supplement the League covenant by the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war.

It was reported in League circles today that the British delegation proposed to recommend study of the League covenant with the idea of bringing it into harmony with the Kellogg pact. There is at present a "war gap" in the covenant which makes war possible and which the defunct Geneva protocol sought to fill.

Paragraph 7 of Article 15 gives members of the League the right to take such action as they may deem necessary when the Council of the League fails to reach unanimity as to which disputing nation should be held responsible for any aggression or attempted aggression.

The problem is to find out whether, without attempting in any way to modify the Kellogg pact itself, the covenant can be so amended by weaving in the underlying idea of the Kellogg pact, which outlawed aggressive wars.

League leaders are worried over this "war gap" in the covenant. The British in particular are said to wish to close the whole matter to discover whether a way cannot be found to merge the Kellogg pact with the covenant. Now that the Kellogg pact has become effective, many League leaders expect that the United States, although outside the League, would be willing to accept the verdict of the League Council as to the identity of the aggressor in any quarrel. They think America will abandon its traditional claim to neutrality in time of war and at the same time decide to give no economic aid and hold no commercial relations with the nation labeled by Geneva as the aggressor.

The paragraph in the Geneva protocol had attempted to fill the "war gap" by naming as the aggressor that nation which refused arbitration of any quarrel.

URGES MISSOURI TO PLACE
MARKER AT LEWIS MONUMENT

Lecturer from Tennessee Tells of Work of Explorer Who Led Expedition Northwest.

Missouri and states along the trail of the Lewis and Clark expedition are being urged to place markers at the Paleowater Lewis National Monument, a 200-acre tract in Lewis County, Tennessee, by P. E. Cox of Nashville, Tenn., who gave an illustrated lecture last night at Jefferson Memorial.

Tennessee has dedicated its section of the Meriwether Lewis Memorial Highway, planned to reach from the mouth of the Columbia river along the route of the expedition to its starting point, St. Louis, past the National Monument and on to the Gulf of Mexico.

"Lewis, who headed the expedition," said Cox, "had a monumental part in making the United States what Jefferson dreamed it would be—a continental entity, washed by three seas. His explorations first disclosed the vast extent of the territory west of the Mississippi and turned the tide of development toward it."

MOSLEM MEETING IN INDIA
Sympathizers With Arabs to Gather Tomorrow in Bombay.

By the Associated Press.
BOMBAY, India, Sept. 3.—Moslems in India have been called to meet here tomorrow in sympathy with the Arabs of Palestine in their conflict with the Jews.

It is explained that the meeting will consider steps to be taken to urge the Government of India to take up the Palestine Arab-Jew issue with the British Government in London and with the League of Nations.

Calles Much Improved.

ROYEN, France, Sept. 3.—The health of former President Calles of Mexico has improved greatly since he arrived in France a month ago, according to his physicians. He swims daily and takes long motor rides. Calles had planned to return to Paris to enter a clinic, but has decided to stay at Royen until Sept. 12 on account of the intense heat in the capital.

Selections for Farm Board to Be Submitted Soon—Only One Appointee Rejected.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Except for the selection of an Assistant Attorney-General to succeed Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt as chief prohibition enforcement officer, President Hoover has virtually completed the reorganization of the administration of which he became the head six months ago.

Judicial appointments still to be made include judges of the First and Seventh Circuits and for the Eastern District of New York and the districts of Kansas and New Jersey. In addition two judges must be selected for the Court of Claims.

District attorneys still to be appointed include those for the Southern District of Florida, the Northern District of Mississippi and the Eastern and Western districts of Pennsylvania. These will complete the reorganization of the District Attorneys' force of the country as a result of a survey ordered by the chief executive and Attorney General Mitchell early in the administration.

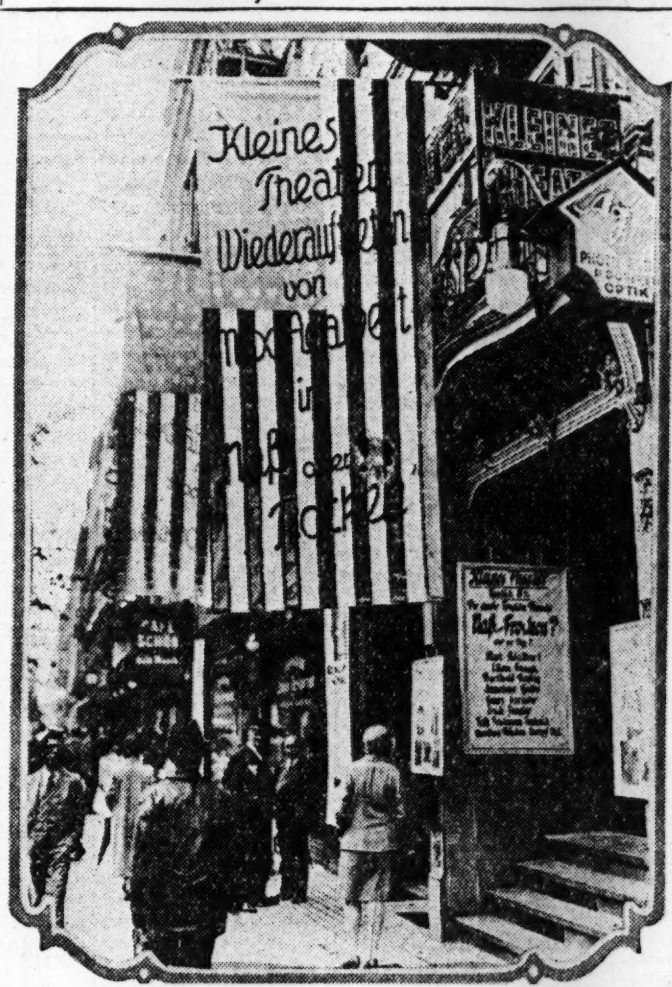

With these selections there will be a large number of appointments to be acted upon by the Senate, including 117 submitted at the first part of the special session of Congress but not acted upon. All of these nominations must be sent in again.

President Hoover probably will defer to the wishes of Republican Senate leaders that only the most urgent nominations be submitted before the regular session in December so that there will be no interruption of the work of the administration of the tariff bill.

Nominations of the eight members of the Federal Farm Board unquestionably will be transmitted to the Senate soon after the Senate session of the special session. The assumption of the special session is that members of the board must serve without compensation until their nominations have been confirmed.

Just before the special session ends the President is expected to submit the name of Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, to be Ambassador to France. Confirmation of this nomination is expected in open executive session as this is customary where Senators are named to other offices.

Naturally there is speculation as to whether Mrs. Willebrandt's successor will be nominated before December. The President has practically decided to appoint

"WET or Dry," a satire on American prohibition, was advertised on two American flags for more than two months in front of Kleines Theater on Unter den Linden, Berlin. Complaints poured in at the United States Embassy, which took the matter up with the State Department. Washington, however, found that there was no legal basis on which the theater manager could be compelled to remove the flags. They were finally removed after Congressman Louis Bloom of New York called on the manager and urged him to take them away for the sake of friendly relations between Americans and Germans.

Nine Western Independents Meet in His Office and Agree on Program, Undisclosed.

MEASURE DEFENDED
BY THE REGULARS

Majority Members of Financial Committee, in 80-Page Report, Discuss Changes.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—Nine Republican Independent Senators from Western States met today at the Capitol and agreed on a tentative program of opposition to the pending tariff bill.

Senator Borah of Idaho, in whose office the group met, later said until all of the Independent Senators had arrived in Washington their plans would not be disclosed.

The Idaho Senator predicted a strong front for the proposal to limit the tariff revision to agricultural products. Generally speaking, he added, the Western Republicans expected the Democrats would have the same point of view.

Another meeting of the Western farm group will be held tomorrow after Chairman Smoot formally lays the tariff bill before the Senate and an adjournment is taken until Thursday or perhaps Monday, Changes in Bill Explained.

Detailed explanations of the changes made in the House tariff bill by Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee were set forth in a tentative report issued for publication today by the committee majority.

Filling 89 printed pages, the document advocated the proposed substitution of domestic for foreign values in the computation of ad valorem duties, asserted that the measure would raise the level of protection on agricultural commodities by 11 per cent and, going through the bill by individual schedules, gave the committee majority's reasons for the rates that it has agreed upon.

Final elimination of all international difficulties in the administration of the tariff law was predicted as a result of adopting the proposed method of levying ad valorem duties. All necessary investigations, the report said, would be made within the United States, thus avoiding inquiries in other countries with their difficulties and occasional international disagreements. In addition, it was asserted that through the new method present inequalities resulting from different

Britain's Dilemma.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE present trouble in Palestine places Great Britain in an embarrassing situation which is fully deserved.

In 1919 Britain, by the Balfour declaration, recognized Zionist claims to Palestine as the national homeland for the Jews. The London Government has always been friendly to the Zionist movement.

On the friendly assurances of support by Britain millions of dollars have been poured into Palestine by Jews in America and elsewhere for colonization purposes.

The attitude of the British officials in Palestine, however, has been rather unsympathetic and even anti-Zionist. In 1920 in the presence of a large force of British troops, an Arab massacre of defenseless Jerusalem Jews was committed. The failure of the British High Commissioner to make a definite ruling in regard to the Walling Wall situation six months ago undoubtedly is the immediate cause of the present trouble.

Ever since the World War, England has been catering to the Moslem Arabs, off its timid and in the Moslem Arabs, submit their grievances to League procedure. It earnestly hopes that at this time, or in advance, the Council will publicly invite the United States to co-operate with it in finding a settlement of this dispute.

That is an excellent idea and, if followed, would in all probability insure peace in Manchuria. Neither Russia nor China would care to defy world opinion as crystallized in the League; in fact, both might welcome an impartial intermediary so as to be able to leave the field without the appearance of backing down. After all, the quarrel is a childish one and is easily susceptible of tactful compromise. The League is eminently qualified to make that compromise.

The South and the Negro.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN a recent issue of the Post-Dispatch there appeared a letter from "A Southerner," in which he stated, among other things, that "The Southern white man is the Negro's best friend." I have no disposition to enter into a controversy with Mr. "A Southerner," but if I were called upon to do so, could more than sustain my position. However, I wish to say that the patent gibberish phrase, so often used by defenders of the South, that "the Southern white man is the Negro's best friend" is nauseating in the extreme.

I am a Southerner by birth and raising, and have traveled extensively over all the Southern states and know the South, not only as well, but better than Mr. "A Southerner" does, if he believes such blarney to be true. Thirty-five years ago, I left my "best friends" and have regretted every day since that I had not left them 35 years earlier, which would have been a few years before I was born.

St. Peter said: "Be always ready to give a reason for the faith that is in you." Well, I am, and can.

Our Judicial-Minded Commissioners.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

HOW judicial-minded public utilities commissioners can be as well illustrated last week at the annual convention of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners at Glacier National Park.

The convention condemned the Couzens bill providing a new Federal regulatory body for interstate public utilities and opposed the creation of any new Federal agencies interfering with the regulatory powers of the states in which the state now operates regularly. The lone exception to hostility toward extension of Federal power cited in the news dispatches was in the Federal regulation of motor bus lines, which was favored.

A temperamental pronouncement by Commissioner Benn of Pennsylvania held up Senators Walsh of Montana and Norris of Nebraska to scorn as officials who "run to Washington over the heads of State legislators because of the belief that national legislation is the great panacea, and pass legislation to brush aside the states' authority to tax and upon every other conceivable thing under the sun."

No utterance at the convention has been told in the news that might not appropriately have issued from a convention of public utility operators or financiers. The rising of a popular prejudice against Federal invasion of local powers to serve special interests is there. Also the enthusiastic castigation of two members of the Senate who have a record of steadfast devotion to the public interest in public utility as in other matters.

It is boards of such commissioners with a supposed judicial function which control the public utilities of cities where those utilities are operated under franchise. In choosing operation under franchise as against operation by day-to-day permit the public chooses between regulation by public commissioners, such as met at Glacier Park to uphold what the public utilities want, and home rule, or the straphanger interest. ## LET THE LEAGUE ACT.

Russia and China's dispute over the Chinese Eastern Railway shows no sign of abatement. Each side stubbornly maintains a pose of righteousness and excuses belligerent maneuvers on the ground of self-defense. War is the possible, even probable, outcome unless some means is found of settling the trouble with satisfaction and honor to both nations. Such a war, if confined to Russia and China, would be disastrous enough. China is in the midst of a great movement designed to bring true nationhood to a people heretofore held together by the loosest political ties, preyed upon both by native war lords and foreign exploiters. Russia, having abandoned its impractical dreams, is in the midst of an industrial renaissance designed to bring wealth and happiness to its long-oppressed and poverty stricken people. But there is no assurance that war would be confined to Russia and China; like the World War, which began with a petty dispute between Austria and Serbia, it might develop into a world-wide conflict.

Thus it is decidedly to the interest of the spectators to the dispute that measures be taken to settle it. Secretary Stimson, it is true, made haste to remind China and Russia of their obligations under the Kellogg pact. Both were equally quick to reply that they were deeply conscious of them, but that this was a problem of self-defense. That was a practical illustration of the Kellogg pact's weakness, so often pointed out in theory. The pact is merely a declaration of virtue and provides no machinery for the settlement of disputes. Neither Russia nor China is a party to the Four-Power Treaty of 1921, designed to keep peace in the Pacific, and besides that treaty likewise has no mechanism useful in the present situation.

There remains, as the New Republic points out, the League of Nations. The League is admirably equipped to step in as referee. Russia is not a member of the League, but the covenant provides that a non-member may be invited to accept the obligations of membership for the purpose of a given dispute. China is a member of the League, but has not seen fit to ask its help for reasons best known to itself. However, it is not necessary for the League to await the consent either of Russia or China before acting. A threat of war is of concern to the whole League, and any member may ask it to interest itself. This has not been done, probably for fear of offending the United States.

Since the American brand of peace machinery—namely, the Kellogg pact—has broken down, the New Republic earnestly hopes that the League Council will cast off its timidity and invite Russia and China to submit their grievances to League procedure. It earnestly hopes that at this time, or in advance, the Council will publicly invite the United States to co-operate with it in finding a settlement of this dispute.

That is an excellent idea and, if followed, would in all probability insure peace in Manchuria. Neither Russia nor China would care to defy world opinion as crystallized in the League; in fact, both might welcome an impartial intermediary so as to be able to leave the field without the appearance of backing down. After all, the quarrel is a childish one and is easily susceptible of tactful compromise. The League is eminently qualified to make that compromise.

ONE HORSE—1921 MOTORS.

Let us pause to feel sorry for American boyhood henceforth. From now on it will never learn the fine art of posting to the trot or know the glorious thrill of rolling along at a gallop. For Dobbin, the old oats-muncher, is no longer passing—he has already passed. Last week Madison County, Ill., made a study of traffic on its principal roads. In the seven days checkers counted 149,786 vehicles of all classes. Only 78 were horse or mule pulled. Eleven a day! Which means that after a buggy or wagon went along 1921 trucks, pleasure cars and busses whizzed past before another horse planked by.

Progress it is, we know, and we wouldn't throw a pitchfork in the works for anything, but then we can't keep our heart from going out to boys who will never know the "feel" of that most fascinating of all pieces of animal anatomy, the rubbery nostrils of a horse. Just think of growing up without having your feet stepped on by Prince or Seelum. Or maybe it was old Bess who couldn't see so very well.

"THE COMET" IN A NEW ORBIT.

We are pulling hard for Maurice McLoughlin to win that Pebble Beach tournament. "Who is McLoughlin?" some cocky adolescent may inquire. Ah, there was a name to conjure with in July prewar days. He came flaming out of the West, this "California Comet," and the galleries saw tennis in a new dimension. What Babe Ruth has done for baseball McLoughlin did for the court game; he invested it with the sock heard round the world. There had been Hobarts and Hoveys, Larneds and Wrights among his predecessors and the Doherty brothers had revived the prestige of Britannia, but their lobs and lawfords and endless baseline dialogues were ripped into shreds by the bullet-like speed of McLoughlin. Old age came fast upon him. At 22 or 23, or thereabouts, he shuffled wearily out of the picture, a spent, enfeebled antediluvian. Subsequently he turned to senility's last refuge—golf—and now appears a contender for the national amateur championship. As a matter of sentiment, poetic justice and grand old melodrama, he ought to win.

THE CALLES TRADITION.

In a message to the Mexican Congress President Portes Gil announces that he has no desire to prolong his tenure of office, that he will retire at the completion of his term next February, and that the present provisional Government will take no hand in the November presidential election.

This is in conformity with the principle enunciated by former President Calles when he voluntarily vacated the presidency under peculiar temptations to continue in power which few public men of any political creed or experience would have resisted. Calles did more than let Satan to "get thee behind me." He kicked that evil genius out of his way, by action as well as precept, when he denounced the man on horseback and declared for institutional government.

The Calles renunciation has, by the patriotism of Portes Gil, been raised to a tradition—one of those imponderables which, in the judgment of Bismarck, shape the destinies of nations. As to its abiding influence in Mexican affairs we may not prophesy, but hope may rationally be entertained that the feet of the Mexican people have been set at last on the path of genuine and competent democracy.

President Portes Gil has elected himself to that distinguished company of "men whom the spoils of office cannot buy." He and his country are to be congratulated.

CUBA AND THE SUGAR TARIFF.

Of the many protests aroused at home and abroad by the proposed tariff increase, particular attention must be paid to those from Cuba. In view of the peculiarly wide effect of the sugar levy on the entire economic life of the island. Other nations have several irons in the fire, but Cuba practices little diversification of crops and remains the largest producer of sugar in the world. Since the United States is Cuba's best customer, the tariff rate here is a matter of bread and butter to virtually every one of the island's 3,500,000 inhabitants.

The Underwood tariff of 1913 placed a levy of 1 cent a pound on Cuban sugar. The Fordney-McCumber schedule of 1922 raised the rate to 1.75 cents. The Senate Finance Committee proposal, now up for consideration, fixes it at 2.2 cents a pound, an increase of 120 per cent in 16 years. The Tariff Commission in 1922 investigated the cost of sugar production in the United States and in Cuba, and suggested a rate of 1.23 cents as giving ample protection. President Coolidge not only disregarded this report, but suppressed it. Hence there is no reason for surprise at the present Cuban protests.

Cuban newspapers are printing fiery denunciations of the proposed tariff increase. Some view the policy as "one of aggression, aimed largely to ruin and demolish the economic life of Cuba," as El Camagueyano expresses it. Others emphasize the sentimental ties between the United States and Cuba, and fear the good will gained by this country in its years of guardianship will be sacrificed. Reprisals in the matter of trade are hinted, and these carry weight when one realizes that Cuba is the eighth best customer of the United States.

The sugar industry in the United States does not require an increase in its subsidy in order to prosper. The proposed tariff would add to American living costs instead of benefiting the farmer. Here are two weighty objections to the Hawley-Smoot sugar schedule; but, disregarding them, the plight in which the measure would place Cuba is reason enough by itself to condemn the proposed rates as extortionate and unjustifiable.

THE UMPIRE'S REVENGE.

The management of the Polo Grounds in New York has installed a system of loud speakers around the stands through which the umpire may purvey to the crowd the latest news from the plate. He merely touches his spikes to a disc back of the catcher and talks through a microphone in his mask.

There have always been plenty of loud speakers in the stands and it does seem like a waste of money to purchase more, but probably it is because the old loud speakers could never agree except on the axiom that the umpire always cheats the home club.

Now it seems the goat-getting boys are getting a real deal, for whereas the ump's slightest hiss becomes a roar, a fellow in the stands has to shout his lungs hoarse even to make the ladies around him titter.

It is the umpire's revenge.

PRISONS AS A FINE ART.

While the United States is worrying over crowded prisons, England finds it has too many, and some are being abandoned for lack of inmates. Historic Warwick Gaol is for sale at $22,000, with no takers, and the Manchester Guardian cannily suggests it be offered to the American millionaires who delight in transporting old buildings, stone by stone, across the ocean.

Here is an idea, even an inspiration, for helping solve our problem. Let's interest the millionaires in prisons as a hobby. Archaic bastilles from abroad would lend variety to the landscape and help the authorities as well. The Government farms out prisoners to county jails, so why shouldn't the county rent evidences to private donors? Millionaires would soon vie with one another in building up interesting and varied collections of miscreants, and might open their displays to public view, after the manner of art collections. Despite the popular interest in murderers, many persons have never seen one and would travel miles to get a glimpse, particularly if at the same time they could view such curios as a man who played pool on Sunday, a jaywalker caught in the act, a captive home brewer and a teacher of evolution imported from the Far South. Then interesting contests could be arranged among the various stables. Mr. Morgan might display the lady bootlegger with the largest family, stimulating Mr. Kahn's scouts to find a superior exhibit. Then Mr. Schwab might have the ugliest bigamist in captivity and Mr. Ford the youngest murderer, aged 6.

Prisoners would acquire new pride and take on self-respect at being objects of plutocratic and public interest. In fact, the possibilities are endless.

An English airplane to be entered in the Schneider Cup race has flown for 10 minutes at the rate of 360 miles an hour, which is the speed of a bullet. Meantime, the proposed American entry, Mercury, has been withdrawn because the pilot, Lieut. Williams, could not get it into the air. Humiliating as this experience is, we must not permit it to discourage us. That American Mercury will some day find its wings.

THE SHORT-SIGHTED ARAB POLICY.

The disclosure that one of the Jews slain by the Arabs in the Palestine riots had left a will bequeathing $50,000 to Moslem institutions is a striking epitome of the situation in the Holy Land. The Arabs profited in many ways by the Zionist colonization. New capital entered the country, better roads were built and utilities were improved, benefiting both Arab and Jew. Moslem laborers got better pay as a result of the building boom. The products of garden and field commanded higher prices through the increase in population. Many sold land at a handsome profit. Moslem workers in the cities enjoyed a higher standard of living. Yet the racial and religious hatreds of by-gone centuries remained near the surface, and the Arabs forgot all tolerance and all practical benefits when excitable leaders urged them to turn on the colonists. It is unfortunate that there is a place in the modern world where such senseless passions outweigh all other considerations.

Speaking of golf, Bobby Jones has strewn the bones of Old Man Par all over Pebble Beach.

GREAT CHANCE FOR THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

A Regional Plan for St. Louis

Since population of city is no longer confined to its boundaries, due to auto and other transportation, municipal problems extend into environs; planning for future of local district should proceed with this spread in mind; broad vision now will save large expense in later years and will provide wonderful facilities.

From a Bulletin of the Regional Planning Federation of St. Louis.

URBAN population is no longer confined to municipal boundaries. Improved methods of transportation, particularly the automobile, have tempted the spilling over of population into the enlarged area known as "the region." This spread of population carries with it the problems common to the central municipality.

The science of planning on a large scale should be applied to these problems throughout the region in advance of complete building up of the area contiguous to the municipality. Most of the large American centers of population are now engaged upon the development of regional plans to guide this suburban growth. St. Louis is the one large American city which has not so far undertaken the development of a regional plan. Guide this growth and provide the logical public improvements in those areas of the region most suitable for particular types of development.

It therefore behooves those interested in making the St. Louis district dominant as a center of manufacturing and culture to encourage and give strong support to the development of a regional plan which will prove of invaluable aid in placing this region in a commanding position. Provision for adequate public improvements and coordination of development in the district mean untold economies. It means that public funds will be expended in the most efficient manner. It means that prospective inhabitants of the district can be approached with greater assurance of securing their ultimate location in the region.

Their attention can be directed to a well-balanced scheme, including transportation facilities—water, rail, air and highway; abundance of recreational areas—parks and playgrounds; good water supply; sewage system. Raw materials are available within a hundred-mile zone in unlimited quantities, including coal and many minerals. Last but not least—short hauls for the manufactured products reach a market of 30,000,000 people.

There are available many examples of lack of vision in directing urban growth. If we are to profit by these experiences, now is the time to do so. The widening of Olive Street for approximately one and one-half miles cost $2,400,000. Compare this with the action of University City in starting the procedure to widen Olive Street road for one and one-half miles at an estimated cost of $200,000. The answer is, timely vision pays. Not so many years ago, a prominent surveyor of St. Louis recommended the widening of Grand avenue from 50 to 100 feet, at a cost of $50,000. To widen Grand boulevard through the congested center from Laclede to Easton avenue would now cost $5,000,000. A horrible example of foresight is the purchase of Forest Park 50 years ago at a cost of approximately $800,000. It is estimated today the value of this same tract is about $80,000,000, although the wise publicly condemned Forest Park with its 1380 acres was purchased prior to the spreading of population in that area. It was good business then—but St. Louis has not profited by such experience in that it has failed to secure another outer park.

St. Louis County is proposing to construct a north-and-south highway 100 feet wide from the Missouri River to the Meramec River along the approximate line of Denny road. This belt road would permit short interchange from the radials in St. Louis County. In addition to this, it is proposed to construct parks and boulevards throughout the entire district along the Missouri River, Meramec Valley, the Mississippi River and the bluffs east and the American Bottoms from Falling Springs to Alton. These facilities are absolutely necessary to the welfare of the district, especially in view of 5,000,000 population within a short time resulting from the supremacy of this district as a steel manufacturing center. It is not exaggerating in the least. Great empire builders such as Charles M. Schwab and James J. Hill have constantly predicted that this district, with its wonderful natural resources, was destined to become the greatest steel center in the world. With these possibilities, it is incumbent upon us to encourage this development by providing facilities to care for it when it comes.

The prosperity of one section of the district influences every other section of the district. Comprehensive development of the entire region means the prosperity of all sections. The American Bottoms offer locations of the best character to prospective industries, and the complete development of this area insures the prosperity of every other section of the region. The regional plan proposes to initiate a three-year program of surveys, including the preparation of a master highway plan; the encouragement of local plan commissions for communities in the district; a comprehensive playground and outer park system; a complete plan of rail, bus and water transportation; an industrial survey; an educational survey; traffic studies; zoning legislation; publicity and historical program; a social welfare and public health survey; further promotion of safety education (accident prevention); surveys of agriculture, commerce, finance and public utility facilities.

The Regional Planning Federation, in addition to the comprehensive study of all these various phases, will also act and assist in the general development of the entire area. It will serve as a clearing house on all planning matters, being a fact-finding, experience-gathering organization. It will provide reciprocal exchange of experience and assemble through a regional planning library the most authoritative works for the use and information of the entire district.

Among the wonderful possibilities of making accessible the Meramec Valley and the bluff region in Illinois is the scheme for a "scenic circuit." This would make possible a 100-mile driveway of natural unsurpassed grandeur. It would excel any similar district development in the United States. It would provide a "Regionway" with ample traffic capacity adapted to existing topographical conditions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.

IT must sadden the heart of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, long a member of the navy, to read that the cruiser USS Chester, has been cleared for her voyage to the scrap-heap or the dull of commerce.

He was her skipper some 15 years ago in stirring moments, moments that led to the foundation of Moffett's career. It was those qualities of leadership led to his being handpicked as navy captain against the separate air service made of ex-Col. Billy Mitchell. That how he became air chief.

The scene of the Chester's big moment was Vera Cruz in 1914. She was off the coast on a mission when the late admiral Frank Friday Fletcher, on orders from Washington, moved his men ashore to seize the customs house at Vera Cruz and set going the forces that swept Mexico out of power in Mexico to self-exile political oblivion and early death.

But the Chester's far-reaching radio word of the street fighting at the old port Northward through the night. Moffett brought her, foaming at top speed, to the fray.

NAVIGATION lights ashore had been doused, but Moffett swept on to the through the narrow entrance of the walled inner harbor, shoulder his through congested commercial craft "observing" French, British, Dutch German cruisers, and find bow and stern moorings in the dark to lay his broadside to the waterfront.

He put the Chester in the front line for the show, bullets from the intense firing ashore crackling around heads of his sailors as they did the job. Daylight showed the newcomer with the whole city under the menace of her guns. Just beyond her lay the marine transport, Fletcher's posse de command. Outside the breakwater lay Fletcher's Lashleys, and those of his senior, Balch, arrived in the night.

A GALE of rifle and machine gun broke out. Vera Cruz boiled and roared with gunfire. Along the waterfront a column of sailors in the motor launch, their coffee-popped whites, closing in on the wide front of the naval school.

Counter fire from the windows of the low buildings crumpled the line back. Then the ships' guns woke in retaliation. The Chester, the Prairie and the San Francisco banged away at the naval school. Great holes appeared beneath each window. Huge clouds of black smoke and "leaping" to his ships, but the Chester failed to note it. The other two stopped; Chester's guns drummed on.

Not until a boat went out putting in Chester's side were her guns silenced. The shore forces moved on, clearing city of snipers.

Surely Moffett recalls that night and his old command, now to vanish in limbo of forgotten ships.

Dr. Dwight Bradley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, Webster Groves, Mo., has during the past year achieved national fame. Recently his article on the historical Jesus attracted country-wide attention through the columns of The Christian Century, an outstanding journal of religion, and now peculiar importance attaches to the publication of his new book, "The Recovery of Religion." This book will be issued during the present week and must be a success. It was following the article in the Christian Century that the publishers, Doubleday Doran, approached Dr. Bradley for this book. It is a discussion of how the man of today, whether he be priest, layman, or unbeliever, can recover the essential principles of inner religion in the midst of an age drunk on science.

In a pre-publication review Dr. Bradley F. Reiser of the Broadway Temple of New York commended it as follows: "A brilliantly written book. Dr. Bradley writes tensely and vividly on difficult themes. It is one of the most worthwhile and stimulating books that has ever come to me."

Dr. Bradley was born in 1889 in South Dakota. His father, a prominent member of the Congregational ministry, is still active at the age of 72. Dr. Bradley was educated in Oberlin College, Rollins College, Western Reserve University. His theological studies were pursued in Oberlin and the Pacific School of Religion. He has served pastorates in Oakland, Cal.; Cleveland, Ohio; El Paso, Texas, and Webster Groves, where he has been for the past nine years.

The war against the book clubs, which broke out last spring and raged violently in the newspapers for some weeks, has come to an end with the surrender of General John Macrae of Dutton's who led the insurgent forces. As a result of

Recently his article on the historical Jesus attracted country-wide attention through the columns of The Christian Century, an outstanding journal of religion, and now peculiar importance attaches to the publication of his new book, "The Recovery of Religion." This will be issued during the present week and many expect for it wide and immediate success. It was following the article in the Christian Century that the publishers, Doubleday Doran, approached Dr. Bradley for this book. It is a discussion of how the man of today, whether he be priest, layman, or unbeliever, can recover the essential principles of inner religion in the midst of an age drunk on science.

In a pre-publication review Dr. Bradley writes tensely and vividly on difficult themes. It is one of the most worthwhile and stimulating books that has ever come to me.

Dr. Bradley was born in 1889 in South Dakota. His father, a prominent member of the Congregational ministry, is still active at the age of 72. Dr. Bradley was educated in Oberlin College, Rollins College, Western Reserve University. His theological studies were pursued in Queen and the Pacific School of Religion. He has served pastorates in Oakland, Calif.; Cleveland, Ohio; El Paso, Texas, and Webster Groves, where he has been for the past nine years.

The war against the book clubs, which broke out last spring and ended violently in the newspapers for some weeks, has come to an end with the surrender of General John Macrae of Dutton's who led the insurgent forces. As a result of the following letter recently received, the Book-of-the-Month Club has dropped its action for a bel against Mr. Macrae and his company: The Book-of-the-Month Club, New York City. Dear Sirs: I am writing to you in behalf of E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., of which I am president, and in my own behalf. I wish to advise you that, based upon investigation and control over the selection of books for your members, free of any influence or coercion by your company's management. I am also convinced that the rate of discount upon which you purchase (as announced to the trade and generally understood by it) has never been exceeded upon any book and that the matter of discount has never influenced your committee's selection. I am also convinced that my statement that your aim and purpose was to mislead the public was erroneous. I sincerely regret having made the statements referred to.

My views, however, on book clubs, as a method of selecting and distributing books as are stated in these broadsides except as they are qualified by the above, for I have been unable to change my opinions as I have expressed them.

Very truly yours,
JOHN MACRAE.

It is no shame to surrender to the inevitable, and that is what Mr. Macrae has done. Not the book clubs, but the economic principle involved in quantity production and quantity distribution was Mr. Macrae's antagonist.

NEW $300,000 HOSPITAL OPENED AT GLASGOW, KY.

Only Modern Institution of Kind Within Radius of 40 Miles From the City.

GLASGOW, Ky.—Glasgow made a public holiday to celebrate the opening of the Community hospital and nurses' home here. It is the only modern hospital within a radius of 40 miles from this city. The $300,000 required to construct the institution was raised by contribution from the public and the Commonwealth Fund of New York City.

The hospital contains 50 beds and eight cribs. The nurses' home in addition to furnishing quarters for the superintendent and attaches of the hospital, can house 10 or 12 nurses.

The medical staff is composed of 40 physicians. Miss Carol Martin of Madison, Wis., is superintendent of the hospital and nurses' home.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 3. NEW YORK has been converted to Brummellism in Big Business. From appearances the ace executives are on a sartorial bust. The lapel gardenia has become a symbol of authority along with meticulously polished nails and a natty walking stick.

In other days such dressy didoes were relegated to haughty floor walkers in large department stores or assistant managers in fussy hotels. Today they are indelibly linked with business success and acumen. Otto Kahn, Charles M. Schwab and Charles Mitchell are a few conspicuous examples.

Bond salesmen in Wall street have hitherto been known as the business dudes, but they no longer stand out in the epic and span movement. Good taste in clothes, it has been proved, reflects a mental alertness that often brings home the bacon.

This dress-up spirit has created a pleasant tolerance for clothes known as nifty. Habillments once classed as foppish create no suspicion of sportiness, nor does the man who affects them need to fear he is endangering his job.

Bank employees were especially fearful of offending superiors by any touch of gaudy in their dress. A gaudy tie or a flaming vest would almost bring the bank examiner on the run. Even a colored handkerchief was considered taboo. But that is in the past.

Many florists have a steady patronage among those who take advantage of the special rates for a "button-hole" nose, daily. And many other little conceits that for so many years labeled the super dandy are now looked upon as an actual aid to getting on in the business world.

The lowliest clerk may spruce up as his fancy dictates and his pocketbook permits. In the early workaday rush in midtown one sees many spats, canes and boutonnieres. Indeed, a soda water jerker recently won the prize for a best dressed man contest conducted by a tabloid.

A BUSINESS magazine indeed discovered that out of 50 jobs paying more than $25,000 yearly and filled within the last 12 months, 46 of those selected were awarded to men patronizing the best tailors and haberdasheries and were known as "swell dressers."

A YOUNG aristocrat, untrussed by high living and whose only talent is piano playing, makes a living entertaining at private parties for $50 a night. His head, however, is still high. He insists on coming as a guest and must be asked to play as a special request.

A THEATER manager discovers in these wildly extravagant days that many men and women patrons of the theater buy two seats when going alone to the play. The extra chair is a convenience for wraps and saves the annoyance of checking, which is certainly the gilded raspberry for hat checking Tarsans.

TICKETS for theatrical dead-ends are known as "skulls." They are not regarded as "Annie Oakleys," which are complimentary for those who actually deserve box office consideration. The d. h. usually gets in free on some pretext of no great importance, yet difficult to ignore. At a first night, only about one-third of the audience pays. The rest come on passes.

A PROFESSIONAL packer called in by a hotel guest sailing for Europe the other day did up the job completely. He packed his own coat, vest and hat, tickling this absent-minded nit-wit pink.

A SQUIFFED gentleman teetering along Forty-second street got in the way of a solemn and beaming gentleman with two ladies, stepping from a limousine to a theater entrance. After dodging back and forth, he lurched up to the annoyed aristocrat, shook his finger playfully and mumbled, "You pleasure loving person, you!"

FOR no reason at all it occurs to me that ever since I've been living in New York I have always had a longing to summon a butler by pulling one of those long red ropes.

Stix, Baer & Fuller's Beauty Salon

a leading St. Louis beauty authority

Recommends this famous 2-minute home complexion rule . . .

in agreement with 16,954 American beauty experts who say "Wash your face for beauty with Palmolive Soap"

WHEREVER you go, beauty experts today have one complexion rule in common. Here in St. Louis—in America's great beauty capitals—in Paris, Rome, or London, they are unanimous on one point.

"Foundation cleansing" is what they call it. And beauty treatments without it are only half effective, they will tell you. Foundation cleansing simply means skin thoroughly, gently, cleansed with palm and olive oils regularly.

Each day your complexion is exposed to germ-laden air. Rouge and make-up, if left on, will clog the pores. Regular basic cleansing is needed.

What great experts say

Twice each day, follow the rule of these greatest cosmeticicians. Cleanse the skin as they recommend with Palmolive Soap. An improved complexion is bound to be your reward.

Palmolive today is universally regarded by the world's authorities on beauty. In every city and town in America, in the great capitals of Europe, those who tend the world's greatest, say: "Wash the face for beauty with Palmolive."

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Matheus, manager of the fashionable Stix, Baer & Fuller Beauty Salon, says: "I have found in Palmolive Soap, a very satisfactory means of attaining basic cleanliness, and maintaining a fresh naturalness of complexion."

The importance of "foundation cleansing"

This internationally-preferred complexion soap is blended of the oils of olive and palm. These two great cosmetic oils penetrate the pores gently, rid them of their dangerous secretions, leave the skin fresh, radiant and supple.

With such a basis, beauty treatments then are doubly effective. Each night at home do this for two full minutes.

Massage the face with a smooth balmy lather of Palmolive, using your two hands. After two minutes, rinse—first with warm, then colder water, until all impurities are washed away, until the pores are closed and the skin is firm and radiant. That is all!

Read above the advice of one of the great experts of this city. In Paris, Mme. Cavallieri is telling her distinguished clientele the same. In Vienna, Pessl echoes her. In Berlin, in London, in Rome—greatest authorities agree on this.

Consult your own beauty adviser. Her experience will bear out this advice. She, too, you will find, knows that natural beauty comes from foundation cleansing.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.

IT must sadden the heart of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, long air chief of the navy, to read that the cruiser Yorknee Chester, has been cleared for her last voyage to the scrap-heap or the dull use of commerce.

He was her skipper some 15 years ago in stirring moments, moments that were the foundation of Moffett's career.

It was those qualities of leadership led to his being handpicked as navy champion against the separate air service crusade of ex-Col. Billy Mitchell. That was how he became air chief.

The scene of the Chester's big moment was Vera Cruz in 1914. She was off down the coast on a mission when the late Admiral Frank Friday Fletcher, on orders from Washington, moved his men ashore to seize the customs house at Vera Cruz and set going the forces that swept Huerta out of power in Mexico to self-exile, political oblivion and early death.

But the Chester's far-reaching radio word of the street fighting at the old port Northwest through the night, Moffett brought her, foaming at top speed, to join in the fray.

NAVIGATION lights ashore had been doused, but Moffett swept on to sail through the narrow entrance of the seawalled inner harbor, shoulder his way through congested commercial craft "observing" French, British, Dutch and German cruisers, and find bow and stern moorings in the dark to lay his ship broadside to the waterfront.

He put the Chester in the front row for the show, bullets from the intermittent firing ashore crackling around the heads of his sailors as they did the job.

Daylight showed the newcomer with the whole city under the menace of her guns. Just beyond her lay the marine transport Prairie. Fletcher's poste de commandement Outside the breakwater lay Fletcher's battleships, and those of his senior, Badger, arrived in the night.

A GALE of rifle and machine gun fire broke out. Vera Cruz boiled and roared with gunfire. Along the waterfront a column of sailors in the motley of their coffee-dipped whites, cowering in on the wide front of the naval school.

Counter fire from the windows of the low buildings crumpled the line back. Then the ships' guns woke in retaliation. The Chester, the Prairie and the San Francisco banged away at the naval school front.

Great clouds appeared beneath each window. Huge clouds of black smoke and dust leaped from the roof. Fletcher sent "cease firing" to his ships, but the Chester failed to note it. The other two stopped; the Chester's guns drummed on.

Not until a boat went out, putting to the Chester's side were her guns silenced. The shore forces moved on, clearing the city of snipers.

BORAH LINES UP G. O. P. OPPONENTS OF TARIFF BILL

Definition of Domestic Value. Domestic value was defined as the equivalent of United States value under the present tariff law—the freely offered wholesale price of the imported or similar merchandise in American markets except that there would be no deduction for transportation costs, commissions and other expenses.

The elimination of these deductions, the report said, will have the effect of greatly simplifying administration, and, if properly done, will result in no change in the amount of duty collected.

Going on to agricultural commodities, the report said that changes in this schedule, as compared with the House bill, were the result of additional evidence adduced at subcommittee hearings, and consist principally of "adjustments."

Substantially, the report added, the committee had agreed to "the considerable increases in rates on agricultural products provided by the House bill," entailing an estimated increase of $25,000,000 in revenues from this schedule and raising the percentage of protection from 23 under the present law, to 24 under the proposed legislation.

Explaining its rejection of the plea of farm organizations for a duty of 45 per cent on all vegetable oils, the committee majority said that it considered coconut oil, constituting 47 per cent of imports under this heading, the most important and with 99 per cent of imported coconut oil coming in duty free from the Philippines, it had not been deemed advisable to "disturb existing free trade relations with the islands." An increased duty on other fats and oils also was considered unwise.

Explanation of Wool Rate. In view of an increased domestic wool yield of about 33 per cent over the last six years, the report said, the committee decided that the increase of three cents a pound on raw wool proposed by the House was inadvisable and eliminated this provision. At the same time an increased duty on wool wastes was recommended on the ground that the intent of Congress would be defeated if a substitute for wool is allowed to come into the country at a rate lower than that placed upon wool itself.

The most important change in the sugar schedule was considered to be that reducing the rate on Cuban sugar from the 2.40 cents per pound figure proposed by the House to 2.20 cents.

"The rates on all items in this schedule," the report said, "have received careful consideration and the changes made have been made with the interests of the consumers, producers, importers and manufacturers in mind."

In anticipation of the necessary formal action of the full committee, which must be taken before the bill is reported, the document in its preface said that the Committee on Finance "reports favorably on the House bill with amendments and recommends that the bill do pass."

Factors in Competition. Asserting that ascertainment of costs of production had been impossible in many instances and had taken so long in others that necessary readjustments have been denied for two or three years, the report said the proposed new provision allowing the tariff commission and the President to consider differences in competitive conditions between foreign and domestic articles would permit more speedy adjustments and result in rate changes conforming "more nearly to the acknowledged policy of Congress."

In including transportation costs as one of the factors in "competitive conditions," report said these costs should be calculated to the principal port of importation instead of the principal domestic market.

"Any other solution," it added, "would deny to domestic articles the ability to compete in the markets along the coastal areas of our most populous states."

Duty on Shoes. Calling attention to increased imports on shoes from Czechoslovakia, the report said this competition was "most keenly felt by manufacturers of Mackay type of women's shoes, who are located principally in Massachusetts." Imports of women's turn shoes, produced in Switzerland, were felt by Brooklyn manufacturers. Hence the proposed duty of 20 per cent on shoes, now on the free list, the report explained.

The free listing of logs of fir, spruce, cedar or Western hemlock, now dutiable at $1 a thousand board measure feet, was proposed because domestic sawmills and shingle mills in the Puget Sound area not supplied with timber lands were dependent in part on imported raw materials. Costs of production in the United States and Canada were not materially different, the report said.

Cedar lumber and shingles of wood which the House took from the free list and made dutiable at 25 per cent would be transferred back to the free list under the committee bill for the same reasons given for free listing logs, and for the added reason, the report said, that imported shingles "are in general of higher grades than the bulk of domestic production."

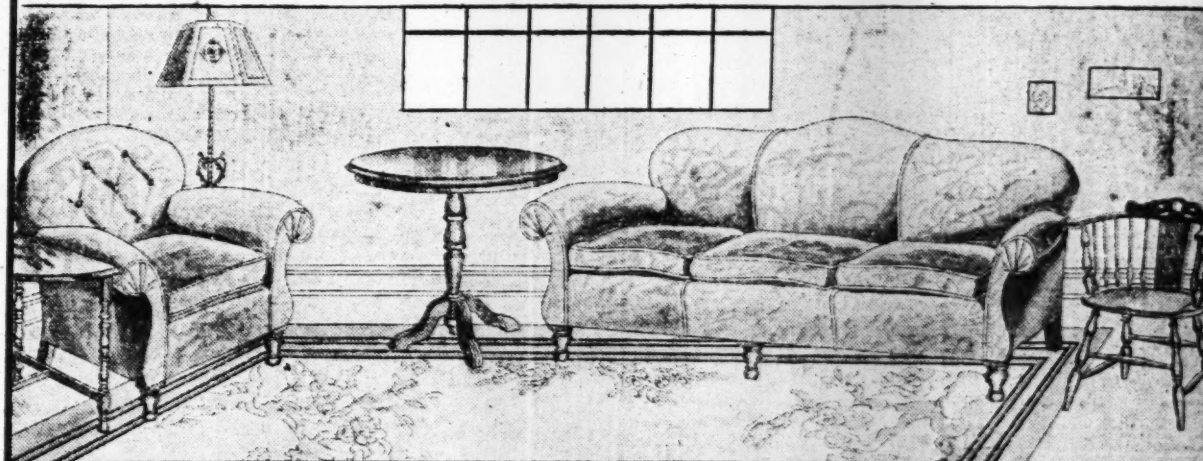

The automobile duty should be reduced, the report said, because of the "strong position of the American industry in the world's markets."

What Is Value?

A Thrilling Story of the Underworld

What Has Happened Before.

In the hold up of the Casa Alvarado, Chicago night club, Detective Captain Jim Courtney is shot and killed by Rico, Sam Vettori's gangster lieutenant. Sam is furious, fearing the consequences, but Rico, unafraid, calls Sam a coward and assumes his leadership. The gang gives Rico a banquet to celebrate his rise to power. When Tony Passa, losing his nerve, attempts to squeal about the hold-up, he is shot dead by Rico. The latter, brooding his field forces "Little Arnie" to give up a share of his gambling house profits. He also takes his woman, Blondy Belle. She tells him Arnie is cheating on the split. Rico, pleased with his power, resents the absence of one of his gangsters, Joe Sansone, the dodo. He finds him performing at a high-class night club with his girl, Olga Stassoff, Joe, four years ago, was a member of the underworld. Rico, a detective, arrives to interrupt the conference. Rico meets Blondy Belle and hears more of Little Arnie's duplicity. She warns him to kill Arnie or set it himself. Alone, on the street, he is fired on from a car. He drops and receives only a flesh wound. His gang gathers and an underworld doctor arrives.

Now go on with the story:

CHAPTER XXI

THE DOE was a graduate doctor, but he had been sent up for an illegal operation and his license had been revoked. He said his name was Lazzaro, but nobody believed him and every reference to him simply as "The Doe." Rico took off his coat and shirt, and sat waiting. His wound had stopped bleeding.

Joe Sansone came over and stood by his chair. Joe's big cut for an inside job had pulled him back to the fold. He never talked any more about quitting the racket. The Courtney affair had blown over apparently, and he had regained his confidence.

"Joe," said Rico, "how come they gave you the tip?"

"Well," said Joe, "I ain't sure, but I think it was an outsider that didn't know nobody but me. He sure had the dope all right. He said the guys were gonna park at 12. They didn't expect you out till 2 or 3."

"A fine bunch of unmen Arnie picked," said Joe.

"The kid climbed off the table and stood feeling his chest."

"Boy, I thought I was plugged for sure."

"They just bounce off of you," said Rico.

The Doe began to bathe Rico's wound.

"Tain't much," he said, "but it pays to be careful."

When the Doe had got Rico bandaged, Rico put on his shirt and sat smoking. Bat Carillo and Ottavio Vettori, whom he had sent for, came in and sat down beside him. The Doe put on his hat.

"Well," he said, smiling at Rico, "I guess I'm done. If you guys have any trouble with them wounds let me know."

Rico got his billfold and gave The Doe a fifty.

"Thank you! Thank you!" said The Doe, bowing.

Joe Sansone let him out.

Rico said:

"Now, listen, you birds, tonight's the big clean-up. If these guys want trouble, why, that's just what we're looking for."

"You bet," said Miller Pepl.

"Now," Rico went on, "I got things fixed with Joe Peep and I'm gonna give Little Arnie the grand rush right away. I want Miller Pepl and Otero and Ottavio to go with me to see him."

"How about me?" demanded Joe Sansone.

"You too, Joe, and you, Bat, I want you to take your gang and smash up Jew Mike's. Run everybody out and then smash the place. If Little Arnie wants trouble, why, that's what we got the most of. Got it?"

"O K," said Bat, "how about the cops?"

"Don't use 'em," said Rico; "Jew Mike's yellow and he won't put up no fight."

"Them guys of mine sure are hard to hold on to," said Carillo, grinning.

"That's your job," said Rico. "We got to watch this plugging stuff with Flaherty on our trail."

"O K, boys," said Carillo.

When the doorman saw Rico get out of the automobile he stood stunned, then, pulling himself together, he made an attempt to run. But Pepl crossed the pavement in two strides, grabbed him by the collar and pushed him ahead of him up the stairs.

"Listen, Handsome," said Pepl, "you tell the look-out we're O K or they'll bury you."

At the head of the stairs the doorman spoke to the look-out through the shutter.

"These birds are all right," he said.

The look-out opened the door and Pepl shoved a gun against him.

"Turn your back, Buddy," said Pepl, "and march straight ahead of me."

Rico, followed by Joe Sansone, Ottavio Vettori, and Otero, climbed the long flight of stairs and entered the lobby. The lobby was deserted except for two or three couples. Beyond it, through a big arched doorway, they could see the crowded roulette wheels. Rico caught up with Pepl and said to the doorman:

"Where's Joe Peep?"

The doorman had an agitated

look. He was sure they were going to kill him. He just stood there, unable to force himself to speak.

"Say," said Pepl, "speak up!"

The doorman pointed to a door. "He's in with the boss, is he?"

Pepl could force the heaviest door with his shoulder.

Joe Sansone tried the door; it was locked.

"Now," said Rico, "Pepl! force the door. You cover him, Joe, in case somebody in there gets nervous. Otero, you stay out here and don't let nobody in. You watch this pair of hard guys here, Ottavio." Rico jerked his thumb toward the look-out and the doorman.

"You don't have to watch us," said the doorman.

The all laughed.

"All right, Pepl," said Rico. Pepl hunched his shoulders and flung himself against the door. It opened with a crash. They saw four startled men rise half way out of their chairs and stand staring. Joe Peep cried:

"It's Rico!"

Pepl was on his hands and knees in the middle of the room, but Joe Sansone stepped in behind him and covered the four men with his big automatic. Rico came in, took off his hat and bowed.

"Hello, Arnie," he said; "how's business?"

Little Arnie sat with his mouth slightly open. As a rule Little Arnie was imperturbable. He hid an excess of both cunning and timidity behind a cold, repellent, salo Jewish mask. But this cynical entry was too much for him. His mask had slipped, revealing a pale, terrified countenance.

"Well," he said, "what's the game?"

Joe Peep, who was in Rico's pay, said:

"Pull up a chair, you guys."

Pepl found two chairs. Joe Sansone and Rico sat down; Pepl stood behind Rico's chair.

Little Arnie turned to the two men sitting beside him. They were strangers to Rico and they looked tough.

"I don't know what this is all about," said Arnie, "but it's a private row, so you guys better beat it."

Rico said very quietly:

"Nobody's gonna leave this room."

One of the toughs shouted:

"Think not, wop! Well, who the hell's gonna stop us?"

Before Rico could reply, Joe Sansone said:

"Me, I'm gonna stop you, see! And I ain't gentle. I'm just itching to put some lead in a couple of hard guys."

"Yeah," said Rico, smiling, "you guys are invited to this private party."

The two men looked at Arnie, who sat tapping his desk with a pencil.

"Say," said one, "your sure got a fine bunch of friends, Arnie."

"Yeah," said Arnie.

"Yeah, he sure has. Arnie, you ought to have better sense than to get a couple of outside yaps to bump Rico off."

Nobody said anything. Arnie took out a cigar and lit it. The two strangers sat staring at Rico. Pepl sat staring at them. Finally he asked:

"Where you guys come from?"

The men looked uneasily at Arnie. Little by little they were losing their nerve.

"Speak up," said Pepl, "where you guys from?"

"We're from Detroit," said one of the men.

"Where the hell's that?" Joe Sansone inquired. "I never heard of it."

"Say," said Pepl, "don't you know that tough guys like you oughtn't to be running around loose? No, sir, you're liable to get arrested for firing a rod in the city limits."

"Listen," said one of the men from Detroit, "what you guys got against us? We ain't done nothing. We just got in."

They were thoroughly intimidated.

CHAPTER XXII

ARNIE, who had recovered his poise, said:

"Well, Rico, what's the talk? Let's have it."

Pepl and Joe Sansone both started to talk at once, but Rico motioned for them to be quiet.

"Arnie," said Rico, "you're through. If you ain't out of town by tomorrow morning, you won't never leave town except in a box."

Arnie said nothing but sat staring at the smoke rising from his cigar.

"In the first place," Rico went on, "you been double-crossing me for two months. In the second place, you hire these bums here to pop me. Now I guess that's about all."

Arnie laughed.

"Rico," he said, "somebody has sure been stringing you. Why, you ought to know I wouldn't double-cross you. Hell, that wouldn't help me none."

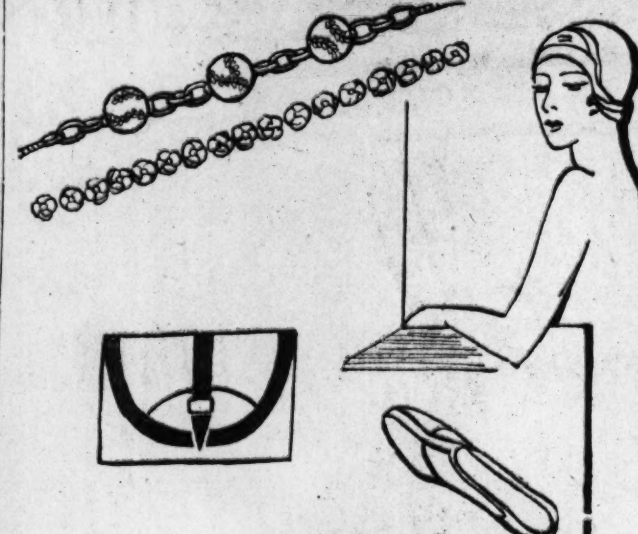

"Can that," said Rico. "Your number's up. Take it like a man. Arnie's face got red."

"Listen, Rico, if you think you can muscle into this joint, you're off your nut."

"All right, Joe," said Rico, jerking his head in Joe Peep's direction.

END-OF-SEASON ACCESSORIES

Some of the most interesting of the season accessories: Large carved wood beads set in links for sports wear; carved beads of semiprecious stones for wear with chiffon; a new envelope bag of pale green shantung trimmed with darker green leather; Mary Nowitsky's rubber beach sandal; a new chiffon turban for informal dinner wear.

NEW YORK

As the season wears on it is the choice of clever new accessories that revives our waning interest in summer clothes.

There are necklaces of every conceivable type for wear with summer frocks. For sports frocks covered the four men with his big automatic. Rico came in, took off his hat and bowed.

A Refrigerator Hint

DO you take the temperature of your refrigerator compartments to make sure that the temperature of 50 degrees F. is being maintained? To secure the maximum efficiency from your refrigerator the compartments must register no higher than 50 degrees.

If you have an electrically operated refrigerator it will automatically maintain a uniform temperature, but in an icebox this must be regulated by keeping the ice chamber well filled.

A temperature of 50 degrees is necessary to keep milk and cream properly. These products are especially sensitive and require careful attention even in a correctly cool refrigerator. After the pastebord cover of a milk bottle has been removed it should be replaced by a glass cover, and butter should always be kept in a covered dish to prevent its absorbing flavors from other foods.

Savory Potatoes

One pound cooked potatoes, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 tablespoon vinegar, salt and pepper. Melt drippings in a frying pan, add onion and fry until light brown. Cut potatoes into cubes and add with the vinegar and herbs. Fry slowly until potatoes absorb the fat, then add seasonings and parsley. Turn into a hot dish and serve immediately.

A tablespoon of vinegar in the rinse water will bring out the luster of silk stockings.

Green Accented by Brown

In contrast to the light greens of summer worn with yellow, white and the like, is the deeper shade suitable for fall. It is decidedly interesting for an ensemble trimmed with brown fur and further complemented by a brown hat and shoes. The darker the green, the darker the brown for real chic.

A Mother's Helper

A large box, and it may be covered with cretonne to make it more attractive, used for toys, will be a labor saver for mother. Teach the children to put away their toys after playing with them. It is a much easier thing to teach if the youngster has a definite place to keep them.

To break into shivers; said of glass not properly tempered.

Keen; sharp; cunning; clever in practical affairs.

A sharp, shrill outcry; scream.

Abolition.

Sharp and piercing, as a sound.

A slender, lobster-like crustacean. Also, a puny or insignificant person.

A place of peculiar sanctity.

French Deaths Race Away From Birth

LATEST vital statistics from France are the most discouraging in recent years. They show that in the first three months of 1929, there were 70,200 deaths, more than a quarter million more than a quarter million.

The Ministry of Labor warns against undue alarm, explaining that the influenza epidemic of last winter was responsible for a large proportion of deaths, and adding that figures for England were even worse. In the first quarter of 1928, there were 77,000 deaths, more than a quarter million more than a quarter million.

Marriages and divorces show a discouraging trend also. There were 6040 fewer marriages than in the same quarter of 1928, and 24,000 more divorces.

THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE--By Kathleen Norris

A Romance of Modern Life

"Going to dive?" "Oh, I'm afraid," she hesitated a moment, hunching up her shoulders, then sat down at the edge of the raft and put her legs in the water.

CHAPTER XVI.

BEATRICE was surprised and not quite pleased by his manner. "Why, Bert, that would be idiotic. Why shouldn't I? I certainly wouldn't waste a grand boss on that," she exclaimed, laughing. "It would be more sensible to dine at home, on the porch, and then leave Hugh to the Memorial, and you and I run into town to the show—I'd love that," she said after a pause.

"Oh, yes. Because the dinners at the Underhill are so—I don't know, pot-roasty. And the club doesn't compare to Ellimons' dispensary." "True," Bert conceded, dispassionately. He rose. "We've got to get back, Bee. They've all gone in."

"Oh, I hate to go back," she lamented, rising slim and tall in her bathing suit, to stand beside him, with the hot sunshine blazing on her copper hair. "I'd love to go in again this afternoon!" "Well, why not? Suppose I used that boss to suggest that we—you and I—go down to the cove at about five. It's lovely there then."

"Oh, but Hugh'll probably play golf, if it isn't too hot!" "Yes, but I said 'you and I'." "We could send all the kids down there ahead with the suits and things," she was planning. "I might ask Hugh not to play."

"Why not let Dad do whatever he wants to do?" "Oh, well, of course," she agreed, laughing. "And you and I do what we want to do," Bert pursued, with delicate emphasis.

"Naturally I want to do whatever Hugh wants to do," Beatrice reminded him, with a little air of childlike dignity. "I see," he said. "And immediately he'd, to come up as smoothly as a seal, below her in the rippled water, with his mane flung back and his expectant eyes upon her."

"Going to dive?" "Oh, I'm afraid," she hesitated a moment, hunching up her shoulders, hugging herself with her brown arms, and then sat down at the edge of the raft, and put her legs into the water. A minute later she was swimming beside Bert to the shore.

"Plenty of wind?" "Fine!" "Take it easy." "I am."

"You can put your feet down here," he said presently and Beatrice, with a great gasp of pleasure and triumph, dropped to a walking position and came out through the shallow water, dripping and happy.

"Hugh was there; perhaps he had been watching her from the shade of the pines above the strand. He met her at the water's edge."

"Hugh, I am getting so that that swim is nothing! I thought I should have to ask Bert for his shoulder, and look at me! I'm not even out of breath!" "It's divine today," Hugh said, in his pleasant, sympathetic voice. "I came mighty near going in a second time myself."

"Oh, why didn't you?" They were walking toward their own cabin now, to get ready for the regular Sunday luncheon at Hugh's mother's house, and she dismissed Bert with a careless farewell over her shoulder. "See you later, Bert! Hugh, are you playing golf this afternoon?" Beatrice asked.

"I was thinking perhaps I wouldn't," he said. "We'll not be finished at Mother's until almost three, and that's the hottest hour of the day. I thought I might get Kreutzmann out, after lunch, and have another go at that, and then perhaps swim, around five."

"Oh, Hugh, that'll be so much more fun!" she said ardently. "Bert wanted to swim, around five, down at the cove, and I said

KOTEX IS SOFT...

WARM days. Clothing reduced to a minimum. Then is when women really appreciate the superior designing of Kotex.

Kotex, you know, is the sanitary pad with rounded, tapered corners. It really fits. Not a revealing outline can show, even when worn with your very lightest summer clothing.

Kotex is so comfortable, too. Bulk and weight are unnecessary because Kotex is so very absorbent. The air-cooled layers of Cellulocotton absorbent wadding keep Kotex light and comfortable though worn for hours.

And what a relief to know that Kotex deodorizes completely—so much more important in summer. The Cellulocotton layers can easily be adjusted as needed. You dispose of Kotex just like tissue, thus eliminating fuss and laundering.

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure... keeps your mind at ease.

4—In hospitals... Kotex is the identical material used practically exclusively by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

It seems to me, if you did, you couldn't," Beatrice said obscurely. "I mean," she elucidated, now surveying herself complacently in the mirror, as she pulled the soft flower-figured petals of her dress into place—"I mean that if you telephoned everyone you ought to telephone, made all the trails you ought to make, kept every dressmaker and French teacher appointment, ran your house, gave dinners and teas and went to dinners and teas—you simply couldn't do anything else? Besides, there'd be Christmas and birthdays," she went on, half aloud, "and friends in the hospital, and flowers and baby presents to send, and her own clothes and Bert's to buy, and dentist and church to do—no, it simply couldn't be done," she finished cheerfully, now glancing at her complete self over one shoulder and obviously pleased by what she saw.

"It's perfect," Hugh commented, of the new gown and the new hair. "Don't you really think it's lovely, Hugh?" she said eagerly.

"But, then, how will you manage all that, Bee?" he asked as Beatrice took a small green hat from a box half filled with silky

WALL STREET STOCK PRICE TENDENCIES REACTIONARY

At Least Two Score of High Priced Industrials and Rails Marked Down 3 to 9 Points.

SOME GAINS OF 3 TO NEARLY 14 POINTS

Stock Exchange Reports Member Loans Increased $407,825,132 in Month to $7881,619,426.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Reactionary price tendencies predominated in today's stock market despite the frantic efforts of pool operators to maintain bullish enthusiasm by bringing forward new leaders. At least two score high priced industrials and rails were marked down 3 to 9 points, with Auburn Auto breaking 21 and Adams Express selling 90 points below the previous transaction. Offsetting these were advances of three to nearly 14 points in a sprinkling of coppers and specialties.

Call money held at 9 per cent all day although hopes were held out earlier in the session that the return flow of Labor day funds would bring about a lower rate. There was no change in other monetary accommodations. Rumor that the Bank of England discount rate would probably be raised tomorrow, coupled with fear of an other warning against the excessive use of speculative credit by the Federal Reserve Board now in session, tended to dampen bullish enthusiasm.

The New York Stock Exchange reported, after the close of the market, that member loans had increased $407,825,132 last month, setting another new high record at $7,881,619,426.

Disturbed Over Credit Situation.
Wall street was obviously disturbed over the credit situation. A rise in the Bank of England rate would, it was feared, result in a withdrawal of foreign balances from New York. With Federal income tax quarterly payments due Sept. 15 and nearly $150,000,000 in stock subscriptions for one of the recently organized investment trusts called for payment on Friday, together with the increasing commercial demand for funds, Wall street saw little hope of early credit relief.

Meanwhile, trade and business news continues generally favorable. Iron Age reports that August pig iron production was the largest on record for that month, but calls attention to a further tapering in pig iron and steel output in the first part of September, although the rate of operations shows a little change. Sears-Roebuck reported an increase of 21.2 per cent in August sales over the same month last year. Directors of the U. S. Tobacco Co. raised the annual dividend from 33 to 44.

Radio and General Motors, both of which are believed to harbor large short interests, were heavily bought all day. Radio soared more than 11 points to 109 1/2, retaining all but a point of its gain, while General Motors showed a net advance of more than 3 points. Du Pont, which had large General Motors holdings, closed nearly 10 points higher at 224 1/2, a new high for the present stock and Otis Elevator showed a net gain of 13 1/2 points. National Cash Register, leading, Greene Canessa Copper and Cerro de Pasco also recorded large gains.

Investment Rails Down.
Investment rails sold off rather sharply in the late trading. Atchafalaya, Chesapeake & Ohio, New York Central, Union Pacific and Norfolk & Western all closed 3 1/2 to nearly six points lower.

U. S. Steel common, which set a new high record yesterday, closed 3 1/2 points lower at 254 1/2, with high priced issues as Case, Frere, Stone & Webster, American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, Allied Chemical, Commercial Solvents, Columbian Carbon, H. Macy, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Johns Manville and Eastman Kodak closed four to eight points lower.

Foreign exchanges moved with narrow and irregular limits, with no changes of importance.

Closing stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on Pages 27, 28 and 29.
